Bush Pilot Hikes for Help

Bush pilot Jimmy Price, 23, walked 35 miles through a snowstorm to get help for three passengers after his plane made a forced landing during a blizzard on Lake Athabasca, 400 miles north of Edmonton. After sitting out the blizzard in the plane for nearly 24 hours, Price started out for Uranium City on foot and covered the 35 miles in 29 hours. His feet were frozen on arrival. A plane picked up his passengers, three miners from Uranium City, Sask.—Carl Anderson, 61; Jimmy Dale, 58, and Pete Teman, 41. All four were flown to hospital in Edmonton. Price is shown in the above picture, his eyes blackened and his face cut in the forced landing. (CP Photo.)

PROVINCIAL CONFERENCE IN FEBRUARY

B.C. Liberals Seek New Leader To Fill 'Boss' Johnson's Shoes

JAMAICA ROLLS OUT GAY MAT OF WELCOME FOR CHURCHILL

TOWER ISLE, Jamaica (AP) — Jamaica put out its gayest welcome mat for the arrival today of Prime Minister Churchill, whose holiday visit is regarded as one of the top events in the history of this crown colony.

Churchill is scheduled to arrive here from Washington in President Truman's plane, the Independence, following five days of conferences in New York with President-Elect Eisenhower and in the U.S. capital with Truman and top government officials.

In Washington, Thursday, Churchill visited another old friend, President Truman, during a whirlwind tour tinged with London-type weather.

The 78-year-old British leader conferred for 80 minutes with Truman at the White House and invited key U.S. congressional leaders to join him for "a late cup of tea" at the British Embassy Thursday night.

What they all talked about, Churchill made clear to reporters, was off the record.

UN Planes Bomb, Strafe U.S. Soldiers

Undisclosed Number of Americans Killed As Anti-Aircraft Unit Mistaken for Foe

(From AP and UP Dispatches)

SEOUL, Korea—An undisclosed number of American soldiers were killed or wounded by United Nations planes Thursday when UN pilots mistook their anti-aircraft battery for an enemy target.

The tragic error took place behind the lines. At least 15 bombs were slammed into the supply unit anti-aircraft company before the surprised soldiers could dive for cover.

The planes followed up their bombing attack with a general strafing of the area.

The company attacked by the Allied bombers was a service battery which ordinarily is a rear area unit which supplies the guns and ammunition for the fighting front lines.

In addition to the troop casualties, several trucks and other equipment were destroyed. It was not immediately disclosed how many planes were involved or what type they were.

However, a soldier who declined to be named said one plane was an F-84 Thunderjet fighter-bomber. He said it came in low and riddled 10 tents and one building.

The soldier said a truck loaded with fuel was set afire and a jeep shot up and its driver killed.

In Tokyo, Brig.-Gen. William Nuckols, information officer for the Far East Air Forces, said "as far as" can be learned there are no indications that U.S. Air Force planes were involved.

AP correspondent George McArthur said the company commander told him, in a conversation over a faulty telephone line:

"They went so fast I can't be sure what they were."

The command post area behind the lines in a sheltered valley north of Yoncheon, was pocked by about 15 bomb craters, the officer said.

Winds Disrupt Island Phones, City Power

Severe winds that drubbed up-island centres, disrupting power and telephone services Thursday night and early today, were the latest developments in a weather picture that has been topsy-turvy for a week.

Victoria's waterfront seethed as overnight winds eased off and the Motor Princess, coming from Vancouver, sailed almost to Albert Head to give her a stern sea for entering harbor.

Farther up-Island Cowichan Bay reported its worst storm in years, the road to Crofton was flooded, and telephone connections between Nanaimo and Port Alberni and Campbell River were broken.

All main roads were reported clear, however.

Duncan was the hardest hit of all communities as heavy snow, warm rain, and finally gale winds ended a 16-hour session of winter weather with a mad round of destruction.

GRANDSTAND DOWN

Grandstand of the Duncan Athletics Baseball Club was toppled, and fences, billboards, and some TV aerials were flattened.

Earlier in the day the city had a heavy fall of snow. With the warm wind and rain, the record melting of eight inches of snow sent rivers and streams to flood heights, overflowing into streets and gutters and into many basements.

Deep snow on the roof of the Goode Building prevented run-off, and considerable damage was done to the building and goods stored within. Commercial Hotel dining room floor was under two inches of water for a time.

Three B.C. Power Commission crews are busy in Ladysmith today repairing breaks in the city's distributing system, caused by high winds, that left street lights out for four hours.

CITY BLACKOUT

Sections of Victoria suffered a power blackout of from 10 minutes to one-half hour today, starting at 6:35 a.m., caused by failure of up-island transmission lines.

Nearest casualty during the storm occurred at Deep Cove, when falling trees trapped Murray Saunders, 196 Beach Drive, Alert Service driver.

While making an early morning run in the district a tree fell across the road in front of his truck and dragged a power line and branches across the cab.

When he left the truck he found a second tree had fallen behind the truck.

"We expect snow showers to-night with a few clear periods and temperatures of from 30 to 38 and 40 degrees," Weatherman William Mackie said today.

Another storm, however, is in the South Pacific, and if it begins to move rapidly it will be here Saturday and rising temperatures, he said.

New Legislation For Sunday Shows Forecast in B.C.

The provincial government hopes to frame legislation making it legal to hold certain types of shows and concerts on Sundays for which admission is charged.

Such functions at present are illegal, but the law has not been enforced. Recently, police advised Vancouver newspapers they would be prosecuted if they continued to accept advertisements for Sunday symphony concerts and Canadian Legion shows.

The government, it is understood, is investigating how far its constitutional powers go in amending present legislation to permit certain types of Sunday shows.

Off the California coast another stricken vessel limped toward port. The lumber schooner Cynthia Olson, buffeted by high winds and mountainous seas Wednesday night, reported she was out of danger and proceeding slowly to San Pedro, Calif., instead of San Francisco.

CALIFORNIA SHORTAGE MAY UP B.C. GAS PRICE

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Oil shortages in California may cause a hike in British Columbia gasoline prices, an Imperial Oil executive said in Vancouver today.

John R. White, vice-president, told the Vancouver Board of Trade, that California is now the source of most of B.C.'s oil, and prices are due to rise because shortages there are compelling the use of more costly supplies.

But arrival of Canadian crude by pipeline next fall may bring prices back to present levels, he pointed out.

U.S. Spending Up $4 Billion

73% for National Security; Would Increase Foreign Military Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman laid a $78,900,000,000 valedictory budget before Congress today.

'FANTASTIC' CRITICS CRY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional finance experts shouted "confusion" and "fantastic" today at President Truman's new budget.

Some promised to cut it at least $10,000,000,000 and also reduce taxes.

Republicans who will control the federal purse strings in the present Congress indicated they would ignore Truman's proposal for spending $78,900,000,000 in the fiscal year starting July 1, and wait to see what President-elect Eisenhower has to say on the subject.

B.C. Premier Backs Wicks On LRB Issue

Premier W. A. C. Bennett today jumped to the defense of Labor Minister Lyle Wicks' part-time Labor Relations Board proposal and appealed for the co-operation of labor and management.

So far, there has been no hint that the government is weakening on its stand, which has met opposition from all sides.

Just before entering the cabinet meeting today, Labor Minister Wicks reiterated his statement that he intends to stand firm on his policy of changing the existing full-time status of the LRB to part-time.

There has been no hint either that the government will agree to defer institution of the part-time board for one year as requested Thursday by the B.C. Division of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

In his defense of the new policy, slated for institution next week, Premier Bennett said: "There seems to be a lot of confusion in the mind of the public on Mr. Wicks' proposal."

"It should be clearly understood the part-time board will have a full-time chairman, Col. D'Arcy Baldwin, who has been in that post for two years."

"The representatives of labor and industry will be called in by the chairman whenever required."

"The premier explained that the proposal is 'not just designed to save a few thousand dollars, but is part of a re-organization of the labor department.'"

"I'd like to point out to labor this is the first time for many years that the government has had a labor minister and a deputy who are members of trade unions," stated Premier Bennett.

Cardena Passengers On Way to Vancouver

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Twenty-two passengers from the holed ship Cardena are scheduled to arrive in Vancouver tonight aboard the Union Steamship Coquitlam, which picked them up at Alert Bay.

The passengers were taken off the crippled Union ship after her hull was torn on a rock near Sullivan Bay yesterday.

Snows Paralyze Rail, Auto Travel; TCA Flies

VANCOUVER (BUP) — A raging blizzard in the Fraser Canyon has completely blocked off B.C.'s lower mainland from the east with an avalanche of snow cascading down on rails and roads.

Snow, pelted by high winds, temporarily paralyzed both railways through the mountains. Both the CPR and CNR were unable to pass through the Fraser Canyon between Yale and Lytton. The CPR made one attempt to push a train through, but it was indefinitely delayed.

The Trans-Canada highway is blocked east of Hope.

(TCA officials in Victoria reported all trans-continental flights operating as of noon today. Flights from Victoria to Vancouver were interrupted for about eight hours by sleet and snow conditions at Vancouver airport, but resumed at 12:15 p.m.)

The CNR's eastbound train waited in Vancouver for the slide to be cleared. Company officials said they could not estimate when the line may be open. They said "every available man" from Vancouver to Kamloops was helping clear the snow.

The RCMP reported the Hope-Princeton highway was in "very poor" shape and no vehicles were allowed over it without chains.

Trucks attempting to run from Princeton to Hope were delayed up to four hours.

The Pacific storm, which brought warm, almost springlike winds to Vancouver, turned out to be high winds in the Hope area, resulting in the first major snowslides of the year.

PLANE RESCUES CRASH VICTIMS

Survivors of Alaska Highway Crash Flown 'Outside' by Daring Pilot

EDMONTON (CP) — Five persons injured in two separate accidents along the Alaska Highway, four seriously, were evacuated to Edmonton hospitals early today by an RCAF mercy plane. The body of a woman, killed in one of the mishaps, was not brought out.

Dead was Mrs. Ernest Camyres of Calgary. Her 41-year-old husband was receiving blood transfusions in hospital. He suffered internal injuries, a smashed left leg, frostbite and exposure.

Injured in the same accident were a Mr. and Mrs. Miller and their nine-year-old daughter, Joanne, from Anchorage, Alaska. Mr. Miller, an American serviceman, suffered chest and leg injuries while his wife has a fractured skull and facial injuries. The daughter escaped with a shaking-up.

The fifth person evacuated was Arthur Kettley, 29, a highway maintenance man stationed at Mile 201 of the Alaska highway. He suffered a fractured spine when hit on the back by a crane boom.

The evacuation was carried out in darkness by a Dakota transport plane piloted by Flt. Lieut. W. J. Watson of Rockcliffe, Ont. It had been on a routine northern flight Thursday when it was diverted to Fort St. John, B.C., 350 miles northwest of Edmonton to pick up the injured.

Two cars apparently were involved in the smash-up at Mile 127 of the Alaska highway, which injured the Camyres and the Millers.

City engineers and police were out in strength during the night patrolling the reinforced dikes, but they were unable to stem a flow of water over the top of the embankments. A road in the Sunnyside district was under about four inches of water and nearly 10 homes were threatened if the water continued to rise.

TORONTO STUDENTS 'UP IN ARMS'

Varsity Editors Kill Sports Page; School's Aim 'Confused'

TORONTO, Jan. 9 (BUP)—

The editors of the University of Toronto student newspaper The Varsity announced today they were dropping coverage of sports in order to avoid confusing students about "the true purpose of a university."

Students were "up in arms" against the decision, one Varsity staff member said. The editors said they would stake their decision, if necessary, on a campus-wide vote.

The three editors, Bud Godfrey, Jim Anderson and Bob Sheppard, said the decision was entirely their own and reached "after lengthy consideration."

"Education is the prime purpose of a university," they wrote. "This purpose is confused by the prominence given university sports. The Varsity has contributed to this confusion."

"We have helped make campus heroes out of football players. We have contributed to making university sport into big business, and big business the yardstick of education."

The editors said, however, they did not minimize the importance of athletics for those who participated and would continue to report results of inter-collegiate and intramural games. Beginning Monday, however, there will be no sports page, and members of the sports staff will be offered other positions on the paper.

The front page story, headed "Drop sports page on considering overemphasis," said the action was taken because of too much emphasis on university sports.

The sports staff protested in another story that the sports page had a part to play in campus news and said it was the best-read part of the paper for many students.

University president Dr. Sidney Smith was not immediately available for comment, but J. McCutcheon, director of intramural sports, said:

"I know of no university on the continent where a more sane attitude toward sports is shown than at Toronto."

Athletic director Warren Stevens said: "The newspaper's service to the readers is to report news and should include sports."

Head coach Bob Masterson said, "I'm amazed. I'm speechless."

ON THE TIMES

By ART STOTT

I have been gazing through the window at the rain and the grey slush in the gutter. I have been trying to whip up enthusiasm enough to work out a column on it, saying how vital the moisture is to the thirsty earth after summer's long baking and a dry autumn.

I have wanted to find out from Cliff Carl and relay the story of water seeping through the surface of the land to lie stored for spring, when it will bring awakening and growth to sleeping plant and tree roots.

I have been trying, but my enthusiasm won't whip.

All I want to do is get away from it. The stuff outside leaves me feeling sad. And those people in the airlines who appeared to be my friends at this time last year seem to have neglected me.

Once they used to send me travel folders and invitations to fly to Hawaii. The pictures were wonderful at this season—blue skies and gleaming sands and golden sunshine, gorgeous creatures with leis around their necks and hibiscus flowers in their hair.

They beckoned me to lands of perpetual summer. They smiled a welcome as if I were an old friend. I could close my eyes and almost hear the plaintive rhythm of guitars and feel about me the flower-scented softness of tropical night.

I could look at those pictures and, hand in hand with Walter Mitty, walk into a swank hotel to join Duke Kahanamoku at lunch. I could talk to him about old times and his visit to Victoria when he was rated the world's greatest swimmer.

Me and Mitty and the Surf

I could move out, still with Mitty, to the beach, pick up my surfboard, take it far into the sea and com riding in on the great Pacific combers.

I'm not saying I'd be the best at Waikiki at that sport. A guy doesn't know if he can surf until he's tried it. But there isn't a man in the South Pacific who could do a better job of lying on the beach in the sunshine than I could. When they make that an Olympic event, I'll be scoring points for Canada.

Just looking at those folders used to give me nostalgia—which is a bit odd because I've never been closer to the South Seas than four rows back at a travelogue film.

Well, I haven't received any publicity matter on flying trips this year. The travel agencies have forgotten me, yes forgotten me, like that old song after dinner sopranos used to sing with faces pulled into a spastic twitch. Maybe the airlines thought they were just tantalizing me. They never included tickets in the literature.

Roll Your Own South Seas

There are just two things I can do about this dreary South Sea rhapsody that plays over the strings of my heart in wintertime. I certainly can't afford to go there. But I could pack a yard of sand into the corner of my basement, borrow my neighbor's sunlamp, cut out a silhouette of Diamond Head from a piece of ten-test for a backdrop, and then stretch out on the cellar floor in my swim trunks while the record player gave out Harry Owens numbers.

Or—and it'd be easier—I could start reading those Michener books again. I could whip through "Tales of the South Pacific" and then make my own "Return to Paradise." It would be pretty vicarious, but when you can't afford tickets you have to weave your own flying carpet.

Then again, maybe I should forget the whole thing, phone Cliff Carl and do a story on the importance of winter's rains and snow. Maybe I should, but Cliff will probably pick up the topic himself and write it a lot better than I could.

Which leaves me right where I started, gazing through the window at the rain and the grey slush in the gutter. Ah well, at least I'm on the right side of the window.

Driver Surprised Wet Logs Weighed 3 Tons Too Much

Chanchal Singh, 2809 Nanaimo Street, made a mistake in log-loading his truck that cost him $15 in Saanich police court Thursday afternoon.

Through an interpreter, he explained that he thought the logs loaded on the truck were dry. It turned out they were wet ones—and this was the reason why his truck and load were nearly three tons overweight.

Constable Walter Mycock reported that accused's truck and load were put on the city scales and found to be 31,030 pounds, whereas the allowable gross weight was 25,400 pounds.

It also cost Singh $10 for not placing red flags about 100 feet in front and behind a vehicle which had had a breakdown during daylight hours. Constable Mycock found the vehicle stalled and blocking traffic on Gorge Road Dec. 16.

Singh was also charged $2.50 interpreter's fees.

Canucks' New Berets Colorful Conditions

OTTAWA (BUP)—Canadian soldiers soon will sport differently-colored berets to make them "among the best dressed soldiers of the world," defense headquarters said today.

"The fashion designers who have been agitating for more color and style in men's hats should be pleased with the new issue of berets in the Canadian army," headquarters said.

Berets of various colors are on their way to the troops "to dispel any thoughts of drabness in Canadian army uniforms and place Canadians among the best dressed soldiers of the world."

KIDNEY ACIDS Rob your Rest..

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—blame it on "nerves"—when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons and excess acids from the blood. If they fail and impurities stay in the system—disturbed rest often follows. If you don't rest well get and use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's help the kidneys so that you can rest better—and feel better.

Anonymous Tipster Succeeds Where Police Corps Fail to Find B.C. Murder Suspect

TORONTO (BUP)—Walter Pavlukoff, No. 2 on the RCMP's list of the most wanted criminals in Canada, was kept under close guard today after a crime magazine fan spotted him on a street corner and tipped off detectives.

The anonymous tipster, who stands to collect a $5,000 reward if Pavlukoff is convicted of murdering bank manager Sidney S. Petrie in Vancouver in August, 1947, succeeded where helicopters, bloodhounds, walkie-talkies and radio-equipped Bren gun carriers failed.

Nine May Have Died When Bombers Hit

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP)—Six, and possibly nine, airmen were killed Thursday night when two huge B-50 air force bombers on a training flight collided over Savannah and one plummeted into marshland.

The other four-engine sky giant landed safely at Hunter air force base with a damaged tail assembly but no casualties. Lieut. Thomas R. Meredith, public information officer, said there were no known survivors from the crew of nine on the ill-fated plane, but he said some persons reported they saw parachutes in the vicinity of the crash. The plane dug a deep crater about 250 feet from a residential district in the Isle of Hope, a Savannah suburb.

The bomber clipped the tops off several trees before crashing into the marshes. Its gasoline ignited and burned a wide area. The plane fell near the Atlantic ocean, and disaster crews worked in chest-deep mud to recover other bodies before an incoming tide could cover the area.

Howe Says Trade With Brazil Up Half

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (BUP)—Canadian Trade Minister C. D. Howe said Thursday that Canadian-Brazilian trade increased by 50 per cent since the end of the Second World War and called for further development of commercial exchanges between the two countries.

Howe, who heads a good will trade mission to Latin America, told a news conference here that Canada's growing interest in Brazil is shown by the fact that many Canadian industrial firms are opening branches in Brazil.

He said that talks were under way for sales to Canada of large quantities of Brazilian cotton.

Earlier, Howe called on President Getulio Vargas.

"We would not treat a dog that way," said the editorial, describing the execution of the men who were not pronounced dead until 50 minutes after the platform dropped.

"Quite likely their necks were broken by the fall, but the hearts continued to beat," the paper said. "We are sick and saddened by it. Something should be done about this soon, before another such exhibition."

Man Who Designed Locomotive Now Makes New Hearts

A designer of diesel locomotives who turned his talents to another field and invented a life-saving mechanical heart, was a passenger in RMS Aorangi Thursday evening.

E. V. Rippingille retired last year after 25 years in the General Motors research laboratories division, Detroit. Last fall he made headlines around the world with the mechanical heart, which was developed in the laboratories under his supervision.

The mechanical heart pumps blood through the system while doctors make "repairs" to the natural heart. It was enthusiastically approved by the American and British Medical Associations.

Mr. Rippingille is active in retirement, and recently perfected a plastic aortic valve for the heart.

MRS. CLAIRE RAUTHE

Lecturer to Explain How Faith Heals

Mrs. Claire Rauthe of London, England, has accepted an invitation to give a public lecture here next Sunday at 3 p.m. on the Bible and Christian Science, according to announcement received from First Church of Christ, Scientist.

Speaking in the Odeon Theatre on the subject "Christian Science: The Hope of Mankind," she will discuss the healing method set forth in the Scriptures, and the present-day use of it in Christian Science, according to the announcement.

The lecture is at 3 o'clock and is open to all without charge.

Mrs. Rauthe is known widely to audiences in Europe and the United States as a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship, of Swedish origin, she lived in Riga, formerly the capital of Latvia, for many years. Later she lived in Sweden, moving subsequently to London, where she has been in the public practice of Christian Science healing since the early 1920's.

Mrs. Pitre Faces Gallows In Stoic Calm

MONTREAL (BUP)—Mrs. Marguerite Pitre, a 43-year-old Quebec City housewife who put a time-bomb aboard an airliner that later crashed and killed 23 persons, was hanged early today at Bordeaux Jail as Canada closed the books on its most fantastic murder in history.

Mrs. Pitre, known as "Madame La Corbeau" (the Crow) because she always wore black clothes, walked to the gallows at 12:35 a.m., EST, and was pronounced dead 15 minutes later. Jail authorities said she displayed no fear and "everything was normal."

She was convicted and sentenced specifically for the murder of Mrs. Rita Guay, one of the 23 passengers and crewmen in the Canadian Pacific Airliner that crashed near Sault Au Cochon, Que., Sept. 9, 1949.

J. Albert Guay, a Quebec City jeweler who masterminded the murder to collect a $10,000 insurance policy on his wife and marry a teen-aged mistress, died on the gallows Jan. 12, 1952.

Horner Named Warden for St. Matthew's

Stanley Horner was named vicar's warden at the annual meeting of St. Matthew's Church parishioners, Langford, earlier this week in the church hall.

Maj. A. E. Smart, former vicar's warden, resigned owing to army duties.

Rev. H. J. Jones, minister, reported progress in church attendance, Sunday school attendance and in work done on the hall.

Appointed to the church committee were: E. Gordon, A. J. Ashdown, G. MacGregor, A. M. Baxter, A. F. Bayles, E. Jeffery, H. W. McKenzie, A. H. Dobson, Mrs. D. B. F. Bullen, Mrs. Oliver and Miss P. Taylor. Synod representatives are Messrs. MacGregor, Dobson and McKenzie; diocesan conference, Mr. and Mrs. Ashdown and Mrs. E. Gordon.

Mrs. Bullen, president of St. Matthew's Guild, reported on the year's work, which included covering some of the church pews, new prayer books, sales of work and garden party.

There are 190 pupils attending Sunday school with 11 teachers, Mrs. S. Horner reported.

D. B. F. Bullen, people's warden, presented the financial statement, which members termed satisfactory.

Rare, Fancy Plumes Show Side by Side With Racing Birds

Victoria will be invaded Saturday by some of the showiest, fanciest and oddest-looking pigeons to be found in British Columbia.

The pigeons, about 500 in all, are being entered in the annual show of the Victoria Pigeon Club, to open at 1 p.m. at the Canadian Legion Britannia Branch Hall.

The pride of bird fanciers, the pigeons began arriving today by boat, air and bus from all parts of Vancouver Island and British Columbia.

The fancy pigeons attracted the most attention. Some looked more as if they belonged to separate bird species rather than the pigeon family. There were jacobins, owls, mookes, carriers, frill backs, satellite blondettes, bluettes and many other types.

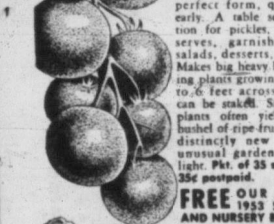

The show will also feature some of the finest racing pigeons in the province.

Among the galaxy of racing stars to be on exhibit will be "Nonpareil," who flew from Lethbridge to Victoria in 41 hours, 14 minutes and 48 seconds.

NATHAN LEOPOLD PLEADS RELEASE

Paunchy, Balding, 48-Year-Old Asks Parole; Intelligent Quotient 'Slightly Above Genius'

JOLIET, Ill. (UP)—The Illinois Parole Board pondered today whether "thrill killer" Nathan Leopold was a rehabilitated genius worthy of freedom or a fiend lucky to escape the electric chair.

Clergymen, professors and friends argued at a hearing here Thursday that the brilliant millionaire's son, who teamed with Richard Loeb in 1924 to kill 14-year-old Bobby Franks with a chisel, should be set free.

A law enforcement officer called Leopold's backers "perpetual bleeding hearts—worshippers of the high IQ and pseudo experts."

Leopold himself, balding and paunchy at 48, told the board that 28 years and four months in prison have changed him completely.

"My personality, even my physical being has changed," he said. "No cell that was in my body at the time of the crime is there today."

"I have learned my lesson. I am a textbook example of a burned child."

IQ OF 208
Leopold has an intelligence quotient of 208, slightly above genius, but the group of educators backing his parole plea said they were not "overly impressed" by his exceptionally brilliant mind.

Professor William Byron of Northwestern University said he "was impressed by the emotional maturity he has achieved and demonstrated."

Cook County State's Attorney John G. Gurnea asked that Leopold be kept in prison for the rest of his life to "spare a mockery of justice." His first assistant Richard Austin called Leopold's well-wishers "bleeding hearts."

When arrested 28 years ago Leopold and Loeb said they picked Franks at random and killed him for the satisfaction of committing a "perfect crime." Prosecutors charged the two philosophy students had a Nietzschean "superman" theory.

Thursday a board member Joseph Lohman asked Leopold bluntly what was his motive for the crime.

"I cannot truthfully give a motive that makes sense, even to me," the slayer said. "It was just a damn fool stunt by a child. It seems as bizarre to me today as it must to all people."

"If there is anything to learning a lesson, I am it. In 1924 I was a wild, smart-alecky kid. At least I'm not a kid now."

The parole board was not expected to reach a decision in Leopold's case until the end of the month.

The killer told the hearing in Stateville Prison chapel that "I can promise that if released I will never be in trouble with the law again."

CHARLES 'BANGS' AWAY WITH HUNTING DAD

SANDRINGHAM, Eng. (UP)—Four-year-old Prince Charles, heir to the British throne, went shooting with his royal parents Thursday with a 30-inch pop gun.

Wearing a deerstalker cap and big rubber boots, the little prince was taken to a field on Sandringham's royal estate where the Duke of Edinburgh was shooting pheasants, watched by Queen Elizabeth II, Princess Margaret and Queen Mother Elizabeth.

Charles put his toy weapon to his shoulder and ran around the field—at a safe distance—shouting "bang!"

Wrecking Crews May Take Over Toronto's Fabulous Casa Loma

TORONTO (UP)—A 160,000 tourists visit it a year. The city has shared profits gained from 50-cent tours.

Between 1942 and 1951, the city spent $16,507 on its castle and collected $130,868 from it.

The fantastic castle on the crest of a hill has been a white elephant ever since 1911, when Sir Henry Pellatt, a millionaire utilities magnate, began building a 99-room showplace twice as big as Andrew Carnegie's in New York, and twice as costly.

Mayor Allan Lamport, who was out of town when the castle's death-knell was sounded at a meeting of the property committee, rushed back to announce that the castle would be safe until there had been "a lot of serious consideration."

The tourist showplace is so "dilapidated," K. S. Gillies said, that urgent repairs alone would cost $75,000. Even if they were made, he doubted that it would last another 10 years.

Officials of the Kiwanis Club, which operates the castle, said CLIMB TO CONCLUSION

ANNECY, France (UP)—A new high in court procedure was reached here today when a jury agreed to climb 5,500-foot Mt. Parmelan for the reconstruction of a hunting accident.

By the time it was finished, Sir Henry could no longer afford to live in it. He lived to see his dream palace sold to the city for taxes.

The Taxpayer and the Criminal

IN A CASE WHICH INVOLVED principles of justice rather than the strict interpretation of the law the British Columbia Appeal Court has decided that income tax returns should be produced in criminal trials. The reasons for this decision, written by Chief Justice Sloan, seem thoroughly sound.

Since many thousands of Canadians submit income tax returns the Sloan judgment is of the highest importance.

It arises out of a trial before Mr. Justice Norman Whittaker, of the B.C. Supreme Court, formerly a leading Victoria lawyer. In this case the provincial attorney-general was prosecuting alleged race track gamblers. The prosecution desired to produce the income tax returns of the defendants to prove the amount of their income from gambling.

The federal justice department objected that all income tax returns were secret and it argued that if the income tax returns of criminals could be produced at the will of the courts then these criminals in future would not disclose their full incomes and the government would lose revenue.

Nevertheless, Mr. Justice Whittaker insisted on the production of the income tax figures desired by the provincial prosecutor. Thus the crown provincial was arrayed against the crown federal.

When it came to consider this matter the Appeal Court found that it had no exact precedents or any statute to guide it. The case was unique in that it required the court to decide what is more a question of public policy than of law. This is not usually the business of the courts, for in nearly all cases they are required to enforce a known statute and have no interest in its wisdom or otherwise.

Chief Justice Sloan's judgment holds that the supreme responsibility of the courts is to see that justice is enforced. Therefore all pertinent evidence in any prosecution must be available to the courts. The judgment does not suggest that all income tax returns can be revealed automatically whenever a prosecutor calls for them since that, of course, would destroy the secrecy of the citizen's private business. It holds only that a judge, considering each separate case, can compel the production of a tax return if he considers it vital to reveal the facts.

As far as the restrained language of the bench allows, Chief Justice Sloan dismisses with a sharp rebuke the suggestion of the federal justice department that its desire for income tax revenues from criminals is more important than the enforcement of justice.

It is difficult indeed to understand such a contention. Assuredly tax returns should never be disclosed unless they are essential in proving the guilt or innocence of a defendant. But to say that they must never be disclosed, lest this discourage criminals from making true returns and thus robbing the federal treasury, is to put revenue ahead of justice.

In layman's language Chief Justice Sloan holds such a contention to be unthinkable. In the minds of most laymen so it is.

No Glue Factory Next Door

THROUGHOUT THIS CONTINENT, industrial and other centres are now paying for the mistakes of earlier days when lack of planning permitted development of conditions injurious to them. Informed town planners can cite instance after instance in which improper use of land has reduced real estate values and has created situations costing thousands of dollars to correct.

In the face of that, Reeve Casey has told his council that he is against zoning any particular Saanich area for industry. He feels confident that the council is competent to decide where industry should be established, and he implies that opinions of the town planning commission will not influence the position he takes.

The reeve would not, of course, permit a glue factory next door to the finer homes in the higher class residential district. He and his council would avoid the more obvious mistakes that might arise in location of industry in Saanich.

But the reeve unquestionably must ask himself if he or any of his colleagues has the technical knowledge to foresee the ultimate effects on a municipality that unplanned industrial development could have.

Planning is a science and zoning is one of its departments. Reeve Casey is too intelligent and too practical a man to ignore such facts. He is also honestly concerned with his stewardship as reeve. Under those circumstances second thoughts will probably convince him that his statement on zoning for industrial purposes has been too hasty. A large body of his municipality's taxpayers would like to hear him make that admission.

'Not Yet a Canadian'

ON THE LAST DAY OF LAST year Erika Neuhäuser, born in Austria and a resident of different parts of Canada since 1931, told her story of delayed hopes.

The young woman has been seeking employment for which she believes her studies in Europe have equipped her. In Victoria she applied for a post in library work. It seemed to be the answer to her dream. But it was beyond her reach because she is not yet a Canadian. The job can be held only by a person with full citizenship.

Miss Neuhäuser is disappointed. She is not, however, bitter against the law. She appreciates its virtue, having had her own experience in countries where laws were made to suit the convenience of the men who made them, and broken when their makers chose to break them.

In a country like Canada she should be able to find work which will give her sufficient to live on. It may not be the exact job on which she has set her heart. Few Canadians, endowed with full citizenship, find such employment in the first few years of their working lives. But in time, Miss Neuhäuser will have the necessary qualifications to exploit her special abilities.

She must be one of hundreds in a similar category—immigrants who have come to Canada as the land of promise and have found fulfillment of promise delayed. It is to be hoped that others see, as she does, the natural inclination to require Canadian citizenship. But it would be a pity if this country, rich as it is, could not find some means by which to sustain the hope and faith of the newcomers until they achieve citizenship.

Restraint should be encouraged among potential immigrants in their visions of immediate opportunities in Canada. They cannot step ashore in this land and walk into any position they want. They must meet certain requirements, must fill in a time of waiting until they justify full acceptance as Canadians.

That in turn throws a responsibility on citizens of longer residence. It is up to them to see that hope does not perish among the bright young people who come here to begin a new life. As full Canadians assume a measure of that responsibility, they might consider the case of Miss Neuhäuser and realize a little more clearly the benefits which citizenship confers.

Raising the Barricades

IT IS UNFORTUNATE THAT Mayor Harrison, in his inaugural address, placed himself on record favoring new legislation to permit Victoria to tax non-residents of the city who earn their living within its boundaries.

Elected representatives of surrounding municipalities have reacted in different ways to the suggestion. Clear indications of quick retaliation against any such measures, were they allowed, have already been given. In some cases scepticism over the question has reduced it to a joke.

This is not the age in which to establish toll gates between municipalities. This is an era in which efforts must be intensified to increase harmony in a community whose residents are compelled to learn to live together amicably.

The mayor's wish to see the outside municipalities shoulder a larger share of the community's financial burden is reasonable enough. His proposal to tax incoming workmen is not.

It is to be hoped that the city council will appreciate the foolishness of such a proposal and vote it down in council. If that is not done, it will depend on the good sense of the legislature to see that no such medieval system is permitted.

Chips

BY DAVID BROCK

IF you buy a man a book for Christmas, purely on spec, without having read it yourself, you feel a little awkward about asking him later if you may borrow it. That looks too thrifty entirely. But you can't very well put off reading it and yet put off sending it until you HAVE read it, or Christmas will be past with your present not sent.

To get round these two difficulties, many people buy gift-books that are as trashy as possible, so as to avoid the temptation to read them at all. This is efficient enough, if they don't care what their friends think of them, yet I cannot feel it is quite the highest type of giving. Even if it has the sanction of the majority and is therefore right.

Of course, another way round is to give away nothing but books you already know and love. And I try to do that, as a rule. If I think the recipient will agree with my prejudices. However, you can't follow that rule at all times. And indeed, if the recipient's taste agrees too closely with your own, it is likely he already knows and even owns the same books you do.

At any rate, I bought at least a couple of gift-books as pigs in a poke last month, and hadn't time for a good look at them. And now I'm afraid to ask for a look at them. Afraid for two reasons. I'm afraid the books were no good, in spite of being well reviewed. And, as I say, it looks just a little too much as if I felt I was a co-owner of those books, and wanted them back now for my turn on them.

I did make a couple of notes for you out of one of the books, though, in my brief glance at it. It was (and still is) Oscar Mendelsohn's book on drinks, with the somewhat depressing title "The Earnest Drinker," published by Allen and Unwin. It's probably not so informative as the reviews kidded me into thinking it might be. But that I've read it! At a glance, though, it seems to contain something for everybody... which is seldom the book for anybody.

It has simple facts about brewing and distilling, etc., for the sort of chap who thinks beer is made from pure hops and nothing else... no malt or yeast or anything, just hops! Little though I know, this too elementary for me. It also contains a great deal of fairly interesting facts about good wines... where would I buy these even if I had the money, pray? This is merely maddening.

And finally, it contains some half-way-between stuff that might or might not appeal to me, depending on how thirsty I was for information that day. Such as the fact that fresh bread is about 1 per cent proof spirit, or the fact that beer is really as nutritious as stout if they are of equal quality.

Ah, yes, and it seems to contain a little repetition, for those who like repetition. (Well, if you like oratorio, you like repetition, don't you? Or if you like most magazines... the whole art of editing a magazine these days is to make each issue indistinguishable from the last, so the customer knows what to expect and won't die of shock.)

All the same, boys, I'd like another look or two at it. For it told me: "I have been in the cellar of one large manufacturer of passably good white sparkling wines who indiscriminately labelled his bottles Champagne or Sparkling Hock according to the order he received, the only difference being that he charged about 25 per cent more for one than for the other."

It told me: "Beers of lower grade than those made entirely from barley malt are produced by substituting for some of the malt other grains either malted or unmalted, plus sugars. This applies, unfortunately, to most of the beer sold today." The best beer, he makes plain, has only barley malt, hops, water, and yeast. The awful dread that we might get something else has sometimes occurred to most of us cynics in most countries. But expert testimony kills hope faster than cynicism does.

I wish notes. Such as this: most gins contain small amounts of other flavors besides the essential juniper, including liquorice, orris, fennel, cinnamon, almonds, etc., and even turpentine and vanilla. Wow. The only time I ever drank turps was when a hotel in Pasadena sold it to me as sherry, the year Prohibition ended. (1934?) Oh, and this: in the U.S.A., provided you call it "blended" whisky, you can include as little as 5 per cent actual whisky in your ghastly product. On the other hand, a product that is 99 per cent finest rum and 1 per cent grain spirits must be labelled Imitation Rum, not "blended." Anybody see any lobbying anywhere?

The national debt of this country is $260,222,000,000, which is greater than the combined debt of all other countries of the world. The total tax load of 72 other nations of the world, including Russia, is $68,000,000,000. The United States federal tax revenue alone, under the present law, will be $71,000,000,000 next year.

FEMALE PREFERENCE
It is the ingrained masculinism in our tradition, maintained by men and by women, which keeps women frozen out of the first category of humans. I'm all for bringing them in. Seemingly, though, it's at dreadful personal risk. It makes women buzz like hornets to suggest it. It makes them uneasy and vindictive. It seems to threaten their prerogatives and their established methods as females. They would far rather wheedle and be kept, than stand up and be accounted human on their own.

'Tell Him It's Just a Social Call'

As Our Readers See It The Rosenberg Case

The Communist's Machiavellian genius for misrepresenting an issue and frustrating western liberal instincts was never as flagrantly evident as it is in the case of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg.

Had the Reds not inspired the "campaign for leniency" in the American spy case it is almost certain that other bona fide representations would have been made on behalf of the condemned couple; as it is, the tactics of the "committee to save the Rosenbergs" have had the effect of intimidating any other agency which might, in all sincerity, have taken up the cause.

It would have been reasonable, since the Rosenbergs are Jews and were tried by a Jewish judge, that members of their own faith might have sought executive clemency; now, with the issue smirched by a Communist cry of anti-Semitism, this is obviously a highly unlikely development.

In the face of the facts it is asking too much of human credulity to believe that the anti-Semitism cry has been raised for any other purpose than exactly this: to see that the Rosenbergs do not receive commutation.

The Communists are ruthlessly and cynically exploiting the Rosenberg case for their own purposes, which is to harass and embarrass the U.S. and to distract attention from the purges currently underway in Europe. It will serve their current line if the Rosenbergs die, and they are working toward that end, while ostensibly seeking mercy.

Strange and horrible as the idea seems, it appears that Communist puppets can be made useful to their mad masters until they dangle at the end of a rope, whether they operate in Czechoslovakia, East Germany—or the United States of America.

ROSENBERG EDITORIAL
On December 10, 1948, the General Assembly of the U.N.O. adopted and proclaimed the Universal Declaration of Human Rights.

Could the writer of the editorial explain or interpret Articles 18 and 19 to his own satisfaction and the edification of those less blessed with understanding than himself?

Should the authorized text be misplaced, the following is a copy:
Article 18—Everyone has the right to freedom of thought, conscience, and religion; this right includes freedom to change his religion or belief, and freedom, either alone or in community with others and in public or private, to manifest his religion or belief in teaching, practice, worship and observance.

Article 19—Everyone has the right to freedom of opinion and expression; this right includes freedom to hold opinions without interference, and to seek, receive and impart information and ideas through any media and regardless of frontiers.

It is hard to co-ordinate the last four paragraphs of your editorial with Articles 18 and 19 of Human Rights.

The Non-Resident Tax

There is far more to be said for, than against, the imposition of a non-residence tax on persons living outside the city but working within it. However, one hears the rumor that one of the reasons for such an imposition is to bring about amalgamation of the outlying municipalities with the city of Victoria.

Is this amalgamation desirable? Is there not current on this continent the idea that "larger" and "greater" are interchangeable terms? That Victoria would be larger because of an absorption of outside municipalities is self evident. That she would be greater is certainly open to question.

Oak Bay is merely an aggregation of houses; possesses no community spirit; has no industry (that smacks too much of plebeianism!); utterly lacks vitality; is characterized by a pharisaical attitude vis a vis Victoria; and economically is definitely a parasitic growth.

Saanich is like a gangling youth: all arms and legs and little body but possessing a somewhat raucous voice. Esquimalt, on the other hand, is a fit and proper subject for union with Victoria. Though somewhat roystering, it has always added "to the gaiety of nations." By all means, Esquimalt should be part and parcel of Greater Victoria, for it has something to offer. However, let Oak Bay retain its isolation to serve as an unchanging warning of what a large (not great) village really is.

National Dedication

Anyone who heard Dean Swanson's fine sermon, broadcast from Christ Church Cathedral, Vancouver, on the "Coronation Ceremony," last Sunday evening, must have been impressed by his final message and suggestion—that at the moment the crown is placed upon the Queen's head, after the service of dedication, we and all the millions of her subjects listening in, also dedicate ourselves to the service of God, and of Her Majesty.

If this could be carried out in sincerity at that solemn moment, what a wonderful way it would be for the nation to begin a new reign.

The dean's suggestion should be broadcast throughout the Commonwealth, and we have a better motto for 1953 than "Dedication."

Over to You, Mantis

BY JOSEPH AND STEWART ALSOP
From Washington

IN THEIR New Year's review of the last year, the able editors of Time magazine made a striking statement. The people of the United States, they remarked with some complacency, "turned a bored ear to science's biggest bang—the explosion of a hydrogen bomb."

The people of the United States, not to mention the editors of Time, would probably be a bit less bored if the significance of the successful test of the first American hydrogen bomb had not been deliberately muffled and concealed by the responsible authorities.

For example, most healthy men and women, whether civilized or savage, feel a very lively concern about their fertility to reproduce their own kind. It is a fearful tragedy for a man or woman to be told, "You are one of the unlucky ones; you are sterile." It would be immeasurably worse to be told, "You can give birth, but only to monsters."

Yet the explosion at Eniwetok can conceivably presage a nightmare time, when the race of men will become wholly sterile, or will breed only monster-mutations. Perhaps the era when the praying-mantis will rule over the earth may not be very far off. If people understood that the Eniwetok explosion has taken us a small but quite measurable distance down this road, they might give way to paroxysms of needless fear, but they would certainly be unlikely to suffer from ennui.

This is another way of saying that one of the things people ought to understand about the hydrogen bomb is the problem of carbon 14. Carbon 14 is a radio-active isotope of common carbon. It exists, in tiny traces, in all organic matter. These traces are normally harmless. They can even be useful.

At the moment, for example, Dr. W. F. Libby of Chicago University is causing a sensation in historical circles, by measuring the carbon 14 in the relics of ancient cultures and so determining their true dates. The mysteries of Stonehenge and Ur of the Chaldees are being unlocked by the carbon 14 key.

These measurements are possible because carbon 14 has the very long half-life of 5,600 years—which is the scientist's way of saying that it takes 5,600 years for a carbon 14-atom to lose half of its original radio activity.

This long half-life is what makes carbon 14 a problem, when hydrogen bombs are to be exploded. The radio-active by-products of ordinary atomic bombs lose their noxious power very rapidly. But in an explosion of a hydrogen bomb, very great quantities of carbon 14 are inescapably produced by neutron-bombardment of the nitrogen in the air. Each hydrogen bomb that is exploded quite significantly increases the total of the carbon 14 component in the make-up of this planet.

Now as everyone knows, a little X-ray hurts no one and can do much good. But if what the doctors call the "radiation threshold" is passed, too much X-ray can damage the victim's reproductive apparatus, or cause actual impotence, or induce necrosis of the bone, or do other kinds of serious harm.

By the same token, this planet's existing, normal component of carbon 14 is no threat to anyone. But if there is too much carbon 14, the whole earth will pass the "radiation threshold." All living creatures will then be exposed to the same sort of harm that results from too much X-ray.

On the whole, the reproductive apparatus of the higher forms of life is expected to suffer the earliest and most severe damage. In this respect, there is a sort of inverse order of precedence. The race of men is among the most vulnerable; the insect and other lower forms of life are the least. To the higher forms of life at any rate, too much carbon 14 will constitute a very real and peculiarly horrible threat.

Some scientists argue that the threat is extremely remote. Most scientists are convinced, however, that the indiscriminate explosion of hydrogen bombs, such as might occur in a war or series of wars, will probably produce too much carbon 14. On the whole, the recent scientific trend has been to lower the estimate of the critical number of bombs. Pessimists even place the critical number in the fairly low hundreds. After that, they say, human genes will mutate or will be destroyed.

As may be suggested by the story of carbon 14, the absolute weapons create problems as well as solve them. The problems will be all the greater when the Soviets have a hydrogen bomb of their own, which they will probably have pretty soon. The problems are unbearably unpleasant, which is the real reason why nobody is thinking about them. But they have got to be thought about all the same, if only because they are problems of life and death for us all.

Seasonal Catalogue

New York Times

INTO the semi-vacuum caused by the passage of Christmas the purveyors of garden seeds—flower and vegetable—very wisely push their catalogues, bright, cheerful, promising of spring and of flowers and tomatoes, radishes and beans. For sports have begun to sag just a little now and they need something to give them a boost, to carry them over the long haul between now and the time spring thaw tells of a new season. No publication ever has been better designed to supply that welcome lift to the spirits than the spring seed catalogue.

Mayor 'Ashamed' of Aldermen's Lowly Stipend; Defies Critics

Mayor Claude Harrison rapped critics of his committee appointments, pitted the poorly-paid aldermen and forecast a good year for Victoria in a talk to the Rotary Club Thursday.

Speaking at the luncheon meeting in Empress Hotel to which the mayor and aldermen are invited annually, he mentioned the aldermen's stipend, which is $50 a month with a $25-a-month car allowance.

"I'm ashamed of it," he said.

Of the committee reshuffle, announced at the beginning of the week, he said it was "non-sense" to consider the changes as demotions or promotions.

"You're no longer in school where you are moved from one grade to another," the mayor said, turning to the aldermen. "Selecting committees is my job and I won't be pussyfoot."

"If I feel I'm right I'll go

NEGATIVE APPROACH ELECTED OAK BAY MEN, THEY DECLARE

Councillors Pat Birley and Geoffrey Ellis, in two-part harmony, told the inside story of how they got elected to Oak Bay council at Victoria Rotary Club luncheon in the Empress Hotel Thursday.

Their recipe?

"We were elected to Oak Bay council because we understood:

- Not to build a grain elevator at Cattle Point,
- Not to allow junk yards in the Uplands,
- Not to build any bridges across Cadboro Bay,
- Not to allow the city to place immigration inspectors at Foul Bay Road and Oak Bay Avenue,
- Not to reduce the councillors' pay,
- Not to indulge in any cloak and dagger operations in municipal council sessions."

ahead no matter who says anything to the contrary, I've lived that kind of life."

DENIES WHIMS

The mayor stated every phase of city administration was important. He outlined his methods of committee appointment to show that the changes were not matters of "caprice."

"It is not demotion to put a man on the garbage committee. I never heard such nonsense," the mayor said. "Garbage and sewage is the most burning subject we have to solve this year."

"With the co-operation of the council we are going to have a very good year."

He referred to a report submitted by City Manager Cecil Wyatt in 1951 in which the latter stated the mayor should be chairman of the finance committee. Mayor Harrison said he agreed.

WANTS CROWN TAXES

He said he believed the provincial government would adopt the principle of paying taxes on government property to municipalities. If the federal government did not agree when the time came, he felt another government should be put in.

"They have taken away the right of taxation, here, there and everywhere, until municipal bodies are cut to the bone," the mayor declared. "It's got to be done to save the municipalities of Canada."

Referring to the difference between a private and a city corporation, the mayor stated: "In a private corporation you can spend money as you like, throw it away if you like; you worked for it; but that does not apply to a city. You are no more than a trustee, governed specifically by certain laws, and you can't go beyond them."

City Clerk Frank Hunter introduced the aldermen to the meeting, while Walter Loney introduced the mayor.

Town Planning Head Regrets Council Stand

Dr. J. M. Thomas, chairman of the Saanich Town Planning Commission, today expressed regret at the attitude of some members of Saanich council with regard to "town planning."

Some council members have gone on record as against any set plans for the development of the municipality, and have strongly suggested that the Town Planning Commission be disbanded.

Even Reeve Joseph Casey went on record at Monday's council meeting as being in favor of "spot zoning" for industries, regardless of the recommendations and advice of the Town Planning Commission.

Dr. Thomas pointed out that every progressive community in Canada and the United States had adopted "town planning."

"Many of the mistakes which Saanich residents see about them today were made years ago when there was no town planning," said Dr. Thomas. "That's what happens when there is no planning."

Grace Shaw, former councillor, and a member of the commission, said the commission was in a better position to study a town planning problem than the council.

Other members of the commission felt that the council's attitude indicated that no resident in the municipality, except the wealthy, had any protection against industries being established near their homes.

Narcotic Problem Among Canadian Youth Held Small

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCMP, investigating reports of illegal use of narcotics by school students and other juveniles, can find no "serious" narcotic problem among the youth of Canada, Commissioner L. H. Nicholson made known these findings Thursday in the 1951-52 annual report of his 4,500-man police force.

Speaking of the juvenile narcotic problem, the commissioner did not specifically mention reports from British Columbia among students there. He said his officers had carefully investigated reports of narcotics among juveniles.

"There were a few cases involving juveniles, one of whom was attending high school," the commissioner said without further elaboration. "There does not appear, however, to be any serious narcotic problem among the youth of the country."

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

VICTORIA'S SUNSHINE RECORD TO DATE, 1953—12.1 HOURS

SYNOPSIS: The battle of the air masses is still as furious as ever in southern B.C. The warm air had the upper hand Thursday night but cold air is pushing south again this morning promising colder weather and more snow for many points along the southern fringe of the province.

Another storm 1,200 miles west of Victoria is expected to reach the coast Saturday morning and again push the cold air northward.

The strong circulation of mild air from the south Thursday pushed some temperatures to near record values for this time of year.

DOMINION PUBLIC WEATHER OFFICE 9 A.M. FORECASTS

VICTORIA: Westerly gales are expected to drop from high 40s to 20s by tonight. Skies will be cloudy with a few snow showers. Temperatures are expected to drop to a low of 30, rising to 40 by tomorrow.

WEST COAST: Gale warning continued. Winds northwest 40. Decreasing 30 this afternoon and to light tonight. Winds southeast 25 tomorrow.

VANCOUVER: Cloudy and mild with showers today and Saturday. Colder with a few snow flurries tonight. Wind variable 20, decreasing to light this afternoon and increasing again to southwesterly 20 again Saturday afternoon. Low tonight and high Saturday at Vancouver and Abbotsford, 30 and 40.

GRAND PRAIRIE: Gale warning continued. Cloudy and mild with showers of rain or rain and snow mixed. Colder at night. Wind variable 20, decreasing to light this evening and increasing to southwesterly 20 again Saturday afternoon. Low tonight and high Saturday at Regina, 30 and 40.

Panel of Six Adjudicators For Festival

Three Representing British Columbia

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

A panel of six adjudicators has been selected by the Victoria Musical Festival committee, to preside over sessions of the 1953 festival to be held in this city during the latter part of April.

Of the six, two are prominent musicians from eastern Canada, one will come from the University of Washington, and three are British Columbians.

Adult choral and vocal classes will come under the experienced judgment of Filmer Hubble, a well-known choral conductor and all-around musician. Mr. Hubble is one of the Canadian adjudicators who has worked on the festival chain in association with British adjudicators.

He has adjudicated as far east as Prince Edward Island and last year judged the music competition at the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto. Before coming to Victoria this spring, he will be adjudicating in Calgary.

Lorne Watson, who is to adjudicate piano classes, is a well-known teacher in eastern Canada and has adjudicated widely. During the past four years he has acted as examiner throughout the province of Ontario for the Royal Conservatory of Music, and this year he adjudicated the music scholarship series sponsored by the Winnipeg branch of the Registered Music Teachers' Association.

New also to the Victoria festival is Walter C. Welke, who will judge school bands, orchestras, string and woodwind classes.

At Washington Mr. Welke has been director of instrumental music at the University of Washington since 1929, and has adjudicated at national, state and sectional contests in the United States and Alaska.

Burton Kurth, supervisor of music in the Vancouver School system, and organist and choir-master of Chown United Church, Vancouver, will be present during the first two days of the festival, to judge elementary choral classes. Mrs. Ethel Ferguson will be welcomed back by lovers of the speech arts who have heard her excellent comments on speech classes at some former festivals.

Recently returned from a tour of summer schools in the United Kingdom and Europe, Mrs. Peggy MacFarlane, a specialist in rhythmic and folk dancing and a teacher in Vancouver public schools, will preside over the dancing competitions.

C (To put in time)

(A) THE RAIDERS (Odeon): This rating is for only those who are western fans. For others it would be a "BB" rating. But as gunsmoke goes this is better-than-average fare. The story plot, concerning the gold rush of '49, and the nefarious dealings of those who would prevent California's statehood, is conventional enough. But the action is forceful and fast, the acting of a surprisingly high calibre for that usually associated with plays of this type.

Violin Virtuoso Renardy Brings Rare Talent Here

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

The replacing of Patricia Travers, whose appearance was scheduled originally on Famous Artists' current series, by youthful, Viennese Ossi Renardy, reminds me of an occasion a few years ago when something similar happened.

At that time Nathan Milstein was to have appeared here but was taken ill and replaced by Ricardo Odnoposoff. The result was so electrifying that I doubt if anyone who heard the young South American-Russian violinist has ever forgotten the experience.

To me, out of several years of concert-going, it still stands almost alone, as one of the most thrilling and satisfying experiences in music. And why the cancellation of a concert by one artist and the substitution of another, implies a let-down, I cannot imagine.

It is logical that if an organization has to cancel a promised event for no fault of its own—Miss Travers is under doctor's orders to rest for a year—it will endeavor to compensate with something of equal value or perhaps better.

Having heard Renardy once, I am inclined to suspect that Famous Artists have "topped their own mark" in this instance. In the estimation of Charles Munch, the noted conductor, there is only one word for Renardy—"perfection!"

OUT ON LIMB
 Of course perfection is a relative quality—relative to one's tastes, temperament and a host of other factors. And equally of course, Munch can afford to go out on a limb with such a superlative.

Nevertheless, Renardy, who is now 32, distinguished himself in Europe before he was 17, then came to the United States, astounded New York critics, spent four years in the armed forces, and has performed with the Chicago Symphony, the Boston Symphony, the Amsterdam Concertgebouw Orchestra, the New York Philharmonic, the St. Louis, Rochester and Houston Symphonies. He has recorded principally in Europe.

An example of what can be expected from his concert on Jan. 13, will be gained by tuning into the N.Y. Philharmonic broadcast on Sunday, when Renardy appears as soloist.

Sneddon Played Truant To Learn 'Hot' Trumpet

Carse Sneddon, who as a boy played "hokey" from school to practise his trumpet, will be one of the featured guests in the Victoria Jazz Society "jam session" at Newstead Hall Monday night at 8.30.

A native of Nanaimo, Sneddon was an expert trumpet player at 14 when his love for music surpassed all other interests. Sneddon came to Victoria and began playing at the Club Sirocco when he was 15 with Bernie Porter's band. Jack Teagarden, who played in Victoria during a nation-wide tour, heard Sneddon and offered to make him a regular member of the band.

The offer was declined, as was a similar offer from the late Fletcher Henderson. After hearing Sneddon play a trumpet solo on "Body and Soul" at the Sirocco, Henderson asked Sneddon to join the band in the first trumpet chair.

After the war, Sneddon moved to Vancouver, where he played in various night clubs and in recent years has been with the CBC studio band. Co-starring with Sneddon will be Victoria's Continentals, the quartet of local boys who have just completed a tour of clubs.

ON THE OUTDOOR FRONT

With ROY THORSEN

Sportsmen, take warning! I have it from a reliable source—four other good sources supplied my informant with the tip—that there is a move afoot to have a portion of Sidney Island Lagoon set aside as a log storage area.

Thanks to the Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association, through their able sportsman-lawyer J. Ronald Grant, such a move was killed last year following a public hearing.

The lagoon is the last feeding and resting place for migrating Black Brant on this end of the island, in addition to being wonderful hunting and picnic grounds and a haven for cruisers and yachts when rough seas kick up.

Sportsmen believe log storage in this area will destroy the lagoon's present natural qualities. My informant tells me he understands the new overtures are being made on the chance logging interests may have better luck with the new government.

If such a move should materialize, it would afford a new organization—to be known as the Lower Island Sportsmen's Council—a splendid opportunity to go into action for the first time, taking whatever steps necessary to oppose the application.

New Club May Be Master Voice

The council is not actually born. But Wil Wilson, proxy of the Victoria-Saanich Anglers' Association, said the organization meeting will be held next Thursday night at 8 in the British Public Schools Club. George Douglas, anglers' secretary, reports 12 clubs from Cowichan-Duncan south have signified their interest in the council plan.

Council has been suggested as a medium through which the mass voice of sportsmen can be heard in major matters concerning them and the outdoor public, including opposition to moves that would further reduce the ever-shrinking pleasure spots still open to outdoorsmen. Officers will be elected at the organization meeting.

Annual meeting of the 1,126-strong Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association will be held Jan. 22 in the Club Sirocco at 8. It will be preceded by an extraordinary meeting to iron out several by-law problems.

Present plans, I hear, are to make this year's "ladder derby" an even richer affair than last year's $3,600-prize meeting.

Random shots: Wes Fulton will likely be the popular choice to head this summer's giant Anglers-Times Solarium Benefit Derby in Saanich Inlet. His co-partner last year, Harry Woodston (father of the anglers' contribution to the crippled kiddies' program) has left for Vancouver and deserves a bunch of bouquets for his sterling efforts on behalf of the Solarium and his work for the association generally. He's a past-president.

Forgetful Steelheaders Hit in Wallet

Steelhead fishermen are advised to make sure they have 1953-freshwater fishing licenses before they go out. Two caught by waders this week didn't have licenses. They'll probably get $10 fines and court costs in provincial court.

Big, genial Alfred "Andy" Anderson, secretary of the Chinook Club, is hospitalized at St. Joseph's and will probably be there for two weeks. . . . VSIAA came through 1952 big operations with a bank balance of $937, reports Douglas. . . . but don't forget the club would have gone in the hole had it not been for the $2 adult membership fee.

Douglas says 75 button fish were registered last year. Forty-six were new button awards, 27 caught by former button holders, but seeking cup awards. . . . There were two gold buttons, five silver and 41 bronze handed to members.

Joe Gibault Ltd. sporting goods store closes its doors Saturday night to end a short 16-month life in our sportsmen's dealer ranks. . . . Rifle expert and former policeman Joe says he's off to the mainland where he has a new job. . . . President Bill Hawkins Jr., I guess, will just slip back into retirement.

Still lots of bluebacks in Saanich Inlet, if you care to try for them. "Yes, it's still good," said Capt. A. C. Cruchley, who reeled in nine Wednesday, but refused to brave the ugly elements Thursday.

"Everybody was all set for a lovely week-end of steelheading in the lower Cowichan River, but the heavy rain and snow of the last few days has killed it by flooding the river," laments Roger Monteith. . . . However, when things settle down a bit the lower reaches are considered a fair bet. Goldstream and Sooke River have been producing a few lately. . . . Monteith says that sea trout fishing is starting to pick up.

Rugby Player Seeks Lost Kit

Vancouver Reps had a pretty good day as a whole at Macdonald Park Boxing Day—all except one fellow, Noel Cross that is.

Sometime after the match, won by Vancouver, Noel misplaced his rugby kit. He would appreciate it very much if the finder would get in touch with the Times sports department.

The bag is a dark blue one, similar to the "ditty" bag of the Navy and contains a blue and white sweater along with other rugby equipment.

Snowsell Paces Mount View Win

Ann Snowsell poured 10 points through the hoop Wednesday to lead Mount View to a 22-12 victory over Esquimalt in the opening game of the Inter-High School Senior Girls' Basketball League.

Rev Ross was high for Dockyarders, racking up seven points.

Line-ups follow: Mount View—A. Snowsell 10, J. Ormond 5, D. Hodge 1, J. Coe 4, S. Williams 2, C. Gardner 1, D. Pugh 1, Hardy 1, S. Smith 1, J. Ketter 1. Total—22. Esquimalt—B. Ross 7, P. Lyle 1, Rogers 1, P. Lander 1, B. Clark 1, Wright 1, D. Robertson. Total—12.

Ritchey Sold

VANCOUVER (CP)—Negro catcher John Ritchey, 1951 Western International Baseball League batting champion and runner-up last year, has been sold to Sacramento of the Pacific Coast League by Vancouver Caps of the WFL.

Purchase price was not mentioned in the announcement by Dewey Soriano, Cap general manager. Soriano, said Caps may get Claude Christie or San Hairston from Seattle Rainiers to replace Ritchey.

Curling Tips

By BONSPIELER

This is the tenth in a series dealing with the fine points of curling, written by a man who is well versed in the game that is growing in interest on Vancouver Island.

The instructional articles, each dealing with a single facet of the mechanics of curling, will appear in the Times regularly, and are guaranteed to make a first-class curler out of the most inexperienced. Cut them out and save them—they may save your game.

STOP PUSHING, PLEASE

The "pushing" disease is contagious among curlers. Its symptoms are easy to diagnose. High pulse rate, muscular contraction in the muscles of the right arm, followed by violent turns. When delirium tremens is noticeable in the actions of your skip, it is time to call for a quarantine to protect society from the effects of your disease.

The first instruction ever given a curler starts him off on the wrong foot. He is told the difference between an in-turn and an out-turn and is admonished to be sure to give the handle the correct turn. In his anxiety to please and at the same time protect himself from the wordy explosions of an irate skip, he concentrates his entire being on giving a twist to the handle that leaves no uncertainty in his or anybody else's mind as to what his intentions were. The idea of aiming at the broom is purely of secondary importance. So, after several games in this manner, it becomes a mighty miracle if he ever develops a smooth and effortless release of his stone.

In imparting that last lethal push, most curlers destroy the accuracy of a good backswing. The real secret is a penultimate swing with the handle of the stone hanging from the fingertips. Swing the rock out ahead. Do not set it down on the ice before releasing it. The handle should be turning as you let the stone go, so that no last-second push is necessary. Get the feeling that you are stretched out at full length, with your right leg stretched straight back behind you and your right arm reaching out at full length ahead of you. This, at the split second the rock leaves your hand.

A pusher's right arm bends at the elbow, and his hand fighters on the handle. A swinger's right arm is always straight—not rigid—and his hand and fingers are relaxed. Go back to the hack and swing!

Crosby Tournament Starts Without Bing

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UP)—The 12th annual Bing Crosby golf tournament got under way today amid threats of continued rain—and with part of the star attraction missing.

Crosby announced today that due to previous commitments, he would not be able to participate in his own big clambake.

He wasn't expected to win, anyway, but it did take some of the glamour from the field. The "only" stars from the entertainment world left now are Bob Hope, Phil Harris, Bob Crosby, John Weissmuller, Dennis Morgan, Hoagy Carmichael and others.

The professional golf aces include defending champion Jimmy Demaret, Porky Oliver, Lawson Little, Jackie Burke, Lloyd Mangrum, Cary Middlecoff, Byron Nelson, Jim Ferrier, Lew Worsham, Julius Boros, Vic Ghezzi and Joe Kirkwood Jr.

Brentwood Hoop

Four games are on tap for the Saanich and Suburban Basketball League at Brentwood Hall Saturday.

The feature pits Saanichton against Brentwood in a senior "C" men's contest while bantam boys', juvenile and biddy girls' contests will round out the card.

Pro Bowl Finale to American Grid Season

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Individual prestige and a healthy rivalry between the two conferences of the National Football League combine to make tomorrow's third annual Pro Bowl football game an outstanding wind-up of the 1952-53 grid season.

The contest, pitting a select squad of 31 players of the National Conference against 31 of the best in the American division, will be televised over the NBC network. The telecast starts at 4:15 p.m. EST.

Otto Graham of Cleveland Browns will handle most of the American offense, and ready for relief will be Pittsburgh's SIDNEY—Nothing remains of the RCAF marine squadron at Patricia Bay Airport, that had functioned since 1940, but one launch attached to the flying boat school.

It will leave when the school is transferred to its parent base at Sea Island.

Disbanding of the marine squadron, designed for rescue work, began last year. Similar squadrons on the east coast have since been broken up.

SOOKE — Proudest children this week at Sooke Elementary School were pupils of Grades 3 and 4, who attended classes in the new building at the school, completed in time for the 1953 term.

DUNCAN—After an all-day trial, Mrs. Janet Dodds, clerk at Kirkham's Duncan Grocery was acquitted Thursday of a charge of stealing from her employer.

She was charged with under-riding the cash register, and with taking $17 between Dec. 28 and 30. Arrest was made Dec. 30.

DUNCAN—Loss was estimated at $12,000 when fire destroyed the hatchery of the Westwood poultry farm Thursday. Owner is Dr. Eric Johnson.

Four Saanich Autoists Pay Fines of $35

Four motorists involved in accidents in Saanich between Dec. 3 and 28 were fined $35 each in Saanich police court Thursday when they pleaded guilty to careless driving charges.

They are: Gerald Bilou, 18, of 533 Cook, who sideswiped a parked car on Richmond Road by the Victoria Veterans' Hospital on the night of Dec. 23.

Richard Stratford, 3650 Iona, whose car went out of control on Richmond Road north of the Normal School, careened across the road, ran through two small fences and over two boulevards, doing $600 damage to the car and the same to property.

GIRL IN PANIC

Stratford told Magistrate H. C. Hall a blow-out started the trouble. A girl, a newcomer to this country, he had picked up at the hospital, had become panicky, adding to his difficulties to control the car.

Willis Rogers, 2714 Rock Bay, who was making a left-hand turn from West Saanich Road to Beaver Lake Road Dec. 28 and hit a model-T Ford proceeding along West Saanich and bowled it over.

Bernard Layes, St. Francis Hotel, young German immigrant, whose car went out of control on Glenford Avenue Dec. 3, traveled for 350 feet on the wrong side of the road and then turned over in the ditch on that side of the road. He also got a license suspension.

City's First Taxi Driver, 'Abe' Willard, Dies

Abner A. Willard, Victoria's first taxi man, died Thursday at his home, 1827-Quadra St. He was 71.

Mr. Willard started the first taxi service here around 1910. He had one car, which he drove himself, and had his stand at the corner of Douglas and View. His was the Grotto Taxi Company which eventually expanded to a fleet of 19 cabs. In the early days, most of Mr. Willard's business came from the navy and the provincial police, who at that time had no cars of their own.

He left the taxi business in 1925 to go to work at VMD. In the past few years, he was employed as a storeman there. Born in Thetford, Ont., Mr. Willard came to Victoria in 1893.

He leaves his wife, Martha, at home, one son, Douglas, and a brother Norman, both in Victoria.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 3 at Sands Mortuary. Interment will be at Ross Bay Cemetery.

BARCELONA, Spain (AP)—Three convicted murderers were garroted to death Thursday night in Barcelona's city prison for the hold-up slaying of a contractor. Garroting, strangulation is the Spanish method of execution for capital offenses by civilians.

Aorangi Carries 500 On Trip to Antipodes

RMS Aorangi docked briefly at Ogden Point Thursday evening, outbound for Australia and New Zealand. The Canadian-Australasian liner picked up a small quantity of freight and a dozen passengers here.

She carries a full list of 500 passengers on this trip. Only two more visits to Victoria are scheduled before she is withdrawn from service in May.

The ship is expected back March 6, and is to make her last call here outbound May 14.

LONDON (Reuters)—Pan-American World Airways' Brazilian subsidiary announced Thursday it is buying four British Comet jetliners to be delivered beginning next year. The firm, Panair do Brasil, will put the 44-seat airliners on its routes from Europe and the Middle East to South America.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

"To tag or not to tag" seemed to be the question in City Council executive committee yesterday.

Chief Blackstock has several boys who can supply the answer without hesitation.

The female department has come forth with the startling news that, from now on, the ladies will be expected to wear mink the year-round, not just in the winter season.

And the household hints in the same department suggest "Before pressing dresses and blouses, slip the garments over ironing board and pat it into shape with turkish towel."

Or you could get an ironing board that was the right shape to start with.

A news item yesterday tells us that a former Victoria woman underwent a series of operations in Vernon, and received 61 bottles of blood in transfusions.

Today we learn that the first Red Cross clinic of 1953 was 75 pints short of its minimum objective.

Anyone care to draw a conclusion?

Sidney P. Tucker, 1346 McNair Street, reports that he listened intently to some of the year-end hit parade radio shows.

He made a list of the "nation's top tunes—as chosen by you, the people" and broadcast by a Vancouver station.

A little later he copied down the "nation's top tunes—as chosen by you, the people" and broadcast by a Victoria station.

There were 10 tunes on each list, and there wasn't a single tune repeated on both lists.

Mr. Tucker wants to know, how come?

Perhaps it is because we, the people, can't make up our minds.

In the wardroom of one of Her Majesty's little ships at HMC Dockyard yesterday, a bunch of the boys were cutting up touches about the convoy days of the last war.

This little tale—which they swear is true—appealed to me.

A young and enthusiastic officer was bringing his first command, a corvette, alongside a destroyer in mid-Atlantic, to transfer papers.

Anxious to show off his seamanship, he came along-side rapidly, to say the least, and a bump seemed inevitable.

However, his "full astern" at the last minute stopped the ship, while the crews of destroyer and corvette automatically looked for the nearest Carley float.

On the bridge of the destroyer, the commanding officer leaned over the dasher, watching the operation with lustre eyes.

As the two ships subsided and rubbed gently together, he spoke—quietly and unemotionally.

"Were you planning," he asked, "to go under, over, or through?"

"Through," he replied.

"Well, that's the way to go," he said.

"Through," he replied.

"Through," he replied.

"Through," he replied.

"Through," he replied.

"Through," he replied.

Happy Ending to Horse-Hare Story

Peter the lost rabbit is really Buggsy the Wanderer and he isn't going to lose his new friend Omar the Horse despite the fact his owner has been found. All this came to light Thursday at Don Carley's Victoria Riding Club stable after the Times published a story about two girls finding an unhappy hare, wet and frightened, on Finnerty Road at Christmas. The girls took the rabbit to the stable where it was befriended by an 18-year-old gelding, Omar. Story about the unusual friendship struck by the pair brought 10-year-old Jack Gansen, 3818 Cadboro Bay Road, to the stable. He recognized the rabbit as his "Buggsy" who had strayed from his hutch and had been given up as lost. There was a joyful reunion—on Jack's part at least—but the sequel doesn't end there. The young owner of "Peter" as the rabbit has been renamed, has decided to leave his furry friend with Omar, they've become such good pals. "But I'll visit them every week so Buggsy won't forget me," said Jack. (The other friend of Omar in the picture, incidentally, is an inquisitive neighbor named Allegro who thinks his profile is worth mentioning.)—(Times Photo by Bill Halkett.)

ALTERNATIVE VOTE WAS EASY COMPARED TO ROTARY BALLOT

Victoria's "most difficult secret ballot" will be held Saturday night, Rotarians were told Thursday by Frank Shandley, president of the club's Youth Service Committee and thus head of the Rotary Boys' Choir.

It came about this way: On Christmas Eve, the choir was singing carols in the Empress Hotel. A Los Angeles oilman named H. R. New and his wife—who have 25 foster-children of their own—were listening.

Recently Mr. Shandley received a letter from the Californian saying that he and his wife were "so thrilled" with the singing of the Victoria lads that he was enclosing a cheque for $100 for them.

"But," Mr. Shandley explained to Rotarians Thursday, "he stipulated that the boys must decide disposition of the money by their own secret ballot."

"We're taking it Saturday night. Think of it—61 youngsters between the ages of 8 and 14! And the government thought the alternative vote was tough!"

Lawyer Charges Persecution Fear Among City Officials

City lawyer Patrick J. Sinnott charged that civic officials had refused to deal with complaints filed by him against junkman Harry Haigh because they feared City Council would take Haigh's side in the matter.

"I went to the chief of police and the city building inspector because Haigh is using his property on Rockland Avenue to store junk. I asked them to investigate my complaint and take proper action. In each case I was told to write the council."

Mr. Sinnott said the police chief and building inspector feared council would charge them with "persecuting" Mr. Haigh if they took any action against him.

The 1952 City Council supported Mr. Haigh when Building Inspector W. J. Oosterink and Fire Chief Frank Briers recommended that he not be allowed to establish a junk yard on Songhee Industrial Reserve. At that time, Ald. J. Donald Smith took up the junkman's case, and brought up the matter of "persecution."

AN AGE OF GREATNESS

No. 1—Discontent, war and civil insurrection painted the English scene on the eve of the Elizabethan era! There was war with Scotland, petering out into a victory the rewards of which could not be held. Many of the English troops were indeed hastily withdrawn from battle to deal with a revolt in Norfolk, where a tanner set himself up as "King of Norfolk and Suffolk," commanding 20,000 armed rebels. Insurrections of this kind—against enforced changes in the

DRIVER HELD GUILTY IN FATAL CRASH

Pays Penalty for Careless Driving

Gordon W. Stewart, 999 Island Highway, driver of a car that struck and killed an elderly man on Hillside Avenue last Nov. 9, was found guilty in city police court today on a charge of careless driving.

Magistrate H. C. Hall imposed a fine of $50 and ordered Stewart's license suspended. Stewart made a plea that he be allowed to drive for business purposes only. The magistrate said this request would go with the report he would make to the motor vehicle superintendent.

Stewart's car struck Ernest W. Carter, 1469 Hillside, as he was crossing Hillside near Gosworth on the night of Nov. 9. Mr. Carter was pronounced dead on arrival at hospital.

Evidence and argument were heard earlier in the week. George F. Gregory was defense counsel.

CAUSE, NOT EFFECT

Magistrate Hall noted that no manslaughter or dangerous driving charges had been laid in the case "but only the usual charge of careless driving—so it is the nature of driving, not the results, I am dealing with here."

"Two pedestrians were crossing ahead of the deceased who should have been picked up by your headlights if you were keeping a proper look-out. At least one of the three should have been seen by you," said Magistrate Hall.

He said the blinding lights of an oncoming car accused complained about should not have obscured his vision for such a length of time before the collision.

Four Injured In Two-Car Collision

Four persons received injuries, some serious, in a crash that did heavy damage to two cars at the intersection of Bay and Blanshard at 8.13 Thursday night.

Most seriously hurt, but reported today to be in fairly good condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital, is Mrs. Dorothy Pickard, 40, of 1328 Yates. She is suffering from head injuries.

Mrs. Pickard was a passenger in a car driven east on Bay by Gerald E. McDormand, 34, of Granges Crescent, Royal Roads, which was in collision with a vehicle driven south on Blanshard by Howard F. Sadler, 1550 Rowan, city police reported.

Mr. McDormand, his wife and their son, Billy, four and one-half years, were treated at Jubilee Hospital for minor cuts and bruises and then released.

Police said no one was hurt in the Sadler car.

Impaired Driver's Record Disclosed After Conviction

Frederick McLeod, 3065 Surrey Place, was found guilty in city police court today on a charge of driving a car on the night of Jan. 4 while his ability was impaired by alcohol.

McLeod was originally charged with being drunk while in control of a car.

Magistrate H. C. Hall, however, after reviewing evidence in the case, said he had come to the conclusion the degree of accused's influence by alcohol did not warrant such a charge. His condition fitted the lesser charge of impaired driving.

McLeod was remanded to Jan. 15 for sentence after Prosecutor Alan Bigelow had told the court accused had convictions on two charges of failing to remain at the scenes of accidents, one dangerous driving charge and one impaired driving charge in the period 1947 to 1952.

Truck Spills Potent Load Of Rock Gas

Luck was riding with truck driver Frank Thomas, 817 Elery, Thursday afternoon on Quarantine Road, Sooke.

His Victoria Rock Gas Co. truck went out of control and overturned, spilling a large number of gas pressure cylinders (see picture).

ROAD SAFETY PLAN URGED

Institution of an "accident point system" in British Columbia was recommended to the provincial cabinet today by the Junior Chamber of Commerce of B.C.

Alarmed at the increasing toll of traffic deaths, injuries and property damage, Monty Aldous, chamber president, asked the government to adopt a plan similar to the point plan of the State of Connecticut in the United States. Manitoba also uses such a plan.

Under the accident point system, a card is kept for every motorist. He gets demerit marks every time he has a traffic conviction. When he gets a certain number of black marks, he's called in to have his driving habits checked. If he continues to get bad marks, he loses his license.

Stevens Succeeds Staneland as Head Of Orphans' Home

New president of the B.C. Protestant Orphans' Home is G. H. Stevens who was elected at the annual meeting in City Hall Thursday.

He takes over the post held by W. E. Staneland, honorary president of the board for the past five years and a board member for 14.

D. S. Tuck was named honorary secretary and R. H. Shanks, honorary treasurer. The constitution was amended to permit election of an honorary vice-president. L. E. Pope was named.

Others on the board are: Canon George Biddle, Edward Williams, C. W. Pangman, Reginald Hayward Sr., Reginald Hayward Jr., Walter Fletcher and Ald. Brent Murdoch.

There are 38 children in the home at present, according to Mr. Staneland's report, which was given by Mr. Hayward Sr. Mr. Staneland could not attend owing to ill-health.

New Equipment Installation Closes Crystal Garden Pool

The Crystal Garden swimming pool will be closed for about five weeks, commencing Thursday, Jan. 15, it was announced by the management today.

The closure, to permit installation of new, major mechanical equipment, will be the first of long duration since it was opened in 1925.

To be installed are new pressure-type dilatometer filters, and new chlorination equipment with multiple jet outlets to give a controlled and equitable distribution of the chemical in the pool.

Aquatic enthusiasts can expect reopening of the pool in the latter half of February.

Only swimming will be curtailed during the installation of equipment. Dances will be conducted Friday and Saturday; private functions will be held as scheduled; teas will be served afternoons, and the operation of the hydrotherapy department will continue.

'Ugh,' Say Jaycees To Totem Emblem

A delegation from the B.C. Junior Chamber of Commerce today told the provincial cabinet they don't like the totem pole emblem on car license plates here.

It was thought the emblem should be replaced with a slogan such as "Evergreen Playground," "Sportsmen's Paradise," or "Home of the Totem."

The delegation also thought: The PGE Railway should be built into Vancouver from its southern terminus at Squamish; ribbon development on highways should be controlled; there should be redistribution of representation in the Legislature; and UBC should have a faculty of dentistry.

No. 5—Edward VI Dies

form of public worship, the enclosures of common land and a debased currency—broke out everywhere like a pestilence. The scornful French ceased their tribute to the English crown and took back boulogne under a humiliating treaty. No. 2—And when, in 1553, Edward VI died, naming Jane Grey as his successor, messengers rode secretly to warn Mary and Elizabeth. Jane's supporters realized they were dangerous.

Barred From Revenues to Pay Builders

Rescinding of an order made last year prohibiting issuance of club licenses to new veterans' premises was asked today by the B.C. Command of the Canadian Legion at a meeting with the provincial cabinet.

The delegation said many of its branches are awaiting licenses because their only revenue comes from liquor sales.

Many branches have invested money in valuable buildings, but now cannot get liquor licenses to allow collection of the revenue needed to pay for construction, the delegation contended.

JOBS FOR VETERANS

The delegation asked the government to allow such government branches as the Legion Control Board, B.C. Power Commission and Public Utilities Commission to hire veterans over the age of 45.

The provincial Civil Service Act has no age limit regarding veterans, but the three organizations named do not come under this act and do not hire the older veterans.

The veterans asked the government to give free hospitalization cards to wives and dependents of war veterans' allowance recipients, widows of veterans in receipt of widows' allowance and recipients of dependent parents' pensions under the Canadian Pension Act.

No Justification Seen For Teachers' 'Raise'

B.C. Trustees Make Concerted Effort To Hold Salary Line, Official Admits

The B.C. School Trustees' Association sees no justifiable grounds for increases in teachers' salaries this year, Richard H. Reeve, vice-president, said today.

Letters to that effect have been sent to all B.C. school boards during the course of "normal routine," Mr. Reeve confirmed.

"We don't blame the teachers for trying to get increases in a province-wide, concerted effort and I can't see why they should object to our concerted effort to retain existing salary schedules," Mr. Reeve said.

He was asked to comment on complaints made at a Victoria Trades and Labor Council meeting Wednesday night that the association had written individual boards instructing them to refuse salary increases and to protect negotiations as long as possible.

"We wrote school boards to tell them of the association's views and urging them to hold the line," said Mr. Reeve, who is chairman of the Greater Victoria School Board.

"We feel that it is part of our business as civic bodies to hold expenses unless there is reasonable justification for an increase," he said.

He said the taxpayers' interests should be protected.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—1. What is Canada's national sport, or, if preferred, game? 2. Where was the game of hockey started or first played?—H.R.H.

A.—1. Lacrosse is generally considered to be Canada's national game, ice hockey being the national winter sport. 2. Historians credit the first game of ice hockey as played under a code of rules taking place at Montreal in December, 1879, by McGill University students. The first set of rules was drawn up by R. F. Smith, a McGill University student, and was based on field hockey and rugby football rules of that time.

Q.—Did Champlain ever visit the site of the present city of Ottawa?—A.T.M.

A.—In June, 1613, he and a party of explorers reached the mouth of the Gatineau River, opposite part of the present city site.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest.

Cabinet Door Shut Against Delegates While House Sits

The provincial cabinet apparently has decided it's going to be too busy during the coming session of the legislature to see delegates.

The Provincial Council of Women, seeking a cabinet hearing during the session, has been refused but told a date might be arranged before the session.

This is a departure from tradition. Previously, many organizations arranged to meet the cabinet during the time the House was in session.

Visiting in South, City Man Killed

Walter Armstrong, 1000 Park Boulevard, died Thursday at Los Angeles from injuries received in Dec. 29 traffic accident at Reading, California. It was learned today. He was 85 years old.

Mr. Armstrong left early in December to visit his daughter residing in Los Angeles. He was struck down by a car at a street intersection in Reading.

A resident of Victoria for 40 years, Mr. Armstrong worked for many years with a well-known motor-sales company here.

He is survived by a son, Norman Armstrong, Victoria; daughters Mrs. William Watson, Los Angeles, Calif., and Mrs. J. T. King, Long Island, New York. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

There's A Way to Keep Dry and Also Be Smart

By PENNY SAVER

Golly! Aren't we having fun! First it snows, then it rains, then it snows again—you could go on forever. At least we can't say we have a dull climate. But what really matters—how are you making out against the temperamental inclinations of the weather?

Hope you've got a serviceable pair of rubber boots or those light-weight and easy-to-carry plastic zippers. They're not the least bit expensive, you know. In fact, I've seen some priced just over the dollar.

Now, we all know there are a great number of women who simply can't stand to look the least bit out of fashion even at the height of a storm.

I'm not complaining about this type of woman. In fact, I'm glad they exist. It's rather refreshing to spot such a person in a crowd of "winterized" females.

If you are in this category, or if you wish to take a new lease on the style of protection from the rain and come-what-may, you'll want to know about these sets.

For stylish comfort in the wet weather a Canadian firm has introduced a taffeta waterproof duster coat.

Now, here is the striking note.

The actual coat is black or navy blue but the lining is a bright contrasting color or plaid with a matching tie for the neck. And that's not all. There is also an accompanying umbrella to match the lining and it is trimmed with either the navy or the black.

This outfit would be outstanding during any season. It is being offered to you for $29.75. That's all they are asking for the waterproofed taffeta coat and matching umbrella. I know you'll like it.

Here's an extra item that you might like to have in your home. Ever thought of owning a lint brush? They're a handy thing to have around, especially if you own a pet that sheds hair. Might even use the brush on the pet for that matter.

This household necessity is made from stainless brass bristles and is priced at $1.25.

Readers' Questions About Self-Improvement Marathon

This week I am giving the question box over to the many questions I am receiving concerning Marathon.

Q—"When do I begin Marathon?"

A.—Whenever you receive your Marathon booklet. It is impossible for everyone to begin at the same time since I receive so many letters that, of necessity, not all readers receive the material at the same time. Believe me, I and a staff of secretaries, are working long hours in order to get your booklets to you as soon as possible.

When yours arrives, begin the next day, and count your eight weeks from that day.

Q—"If I join Marathon, am I ethically bound to write you the results I obtain?"

A.—No, certainly not! I am just interested in the progress my readers make, and it is stimulating to me to hear about your results. I really am interested in helping you, but there is no obligation.

Q—"If I should be one of the lucky winners, and you published my result letter in your column, could I be sure that you would not use my name?"

A.—You need have no worry on that score. Actually, I have never published a Marathon winner's name in my column, although many readers have given me permission to do so. I have not used names because most women do not want me to use their names, and therefore I have just made it a habit not to do so.

Q—"What can I expect to accomplish when on your Marathon?"

A.—Almost anything you wish to accomplish. You can lose 20 pounds, improve skin and hair and posture. You can also improve health, and often fail to many happy by-products, such as loss of tension and constipation. My Marathon booklet covers the usual problems in beauty and figure and gives you directions as to diet. You can also increase your bust measurement and build up calf contour. You can do a lot in eight weeks!

Happy landings to my Marathon entrants! Stick to that routine for just eight short weeks, and you will feel well repaid! I guarantee that if you follow directions.

Stand a scorched pot in a pan of cold water 15 to 30 minutes and do not scrape the bottom.

Hair ribbons and small lingerie ribbons should not be rubbed or crushed in washing. Do all the washing and brushing with soap jelly as the ribbon is stretched out flat on the bottom of the bathtub or other porcelain. After thoroughly rinsing, press the ribbon with soft cloth to squeeze out all water. Let dry stretched out on the porcelain. Lingerie ribbons can be dried wrapped tightly around a bottle.

AS WE LIVE

Could High School Senior Score With College Miss?

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

When a boy sets his heart on meeting a girl, the sooner he does so, the better. Otherwise he is apt to idealize her to the point where all other girls seem dull by contrast. That will be this boy's problem.

Hurlock

(Q)—"How can I meet a beautiful girl whom I don't know? I saw her picture and I made up my mind that I should like to know her. After careful investigation, I found out that she is several months older than I and is a freshman at a junior college. I am a high school senior. The college she attends is only about 30 miles from where I live and I have access to a car so I could see her. I know I will be running into competition from a college nearby but, if this isn't too much of a handicap, please tell me how I am to meet her."

(A)—If you do not know anyone who knows her, watch to see where she attends church. Then go to the pastor of that church and tell him how anxious you are to meet her. If he thinks you are suitable, he will introduce you.

Meeting her, however, is only one obstacle. A girl who is in college feels much too adult to associate with a high school boy. There is a big gap between high school and college in the mind of a college freshman.

I question whether she would accept your dates, regardless of your looks. She would hesitate to let her friends know that she was dating a high school boy for fear they would tease her about robbing-the cradle.

Go ahead, however, and see how you make out. Until you do, your romantic ideal may spoil your high school fun.

Good Dinner of Roast Beef the Antidote for Rich Holiday Fare

Plain cooking probably is as good an antidote as any for the rich fare of the holiday season and an old-fashioned roast dinner fits the bill perfectly.

Home economists of the consumer section, Canadian department of agriculture, like their roast beef with carrot curls served with or without York shire pudding, mashed turnips and baked onions stuffed with green peas. Horseradish sauce adds a special tang to the beef.

When roasting meat put it on a rack in an uncovered pan as the fat melts it automatically bastes the roast and helps to make it juicy. Home economists say that adding water spoils a roast. This is only done with the less tender cuts which need moist heat.

The meat should be roasted in a moderately slow oven 325 degrees Fahrenheit.

FOR ATTRACTIVE CHEESE

The president of the Canadian Association of Consumers, Mrs. W. R. Walton, Jr., of Oakville, Ont., recently gave the cheese manufacturers of central Ontario a few hints for helping the ailing domestic market.

Mrs. Walton told the producers that in the stores Canadian Cheddar cheese is cut in an untidy manner and is poorly labelled. It would be more attractive, she said, if it were manufactured in rectangular rather than circular forms.

Mrs. Walton said that Canadian cheese should be more attractively displayed to catch the housewife's eye. Transparent wrappers which could be opened easily would do much to help sales.

Here is a recipe for a macaroni, supper casserole which the family should find appetizing:

Ingredients: Two cups cooked macaroni; two tablespoons butter; two tablespoons flour; 1 1/2 cups milk; one-half teaspoon salt; dash of pepper; one-quarter teaspoon paprika; one cup corn; one cup grated cheese.

Cook macaroni in boiling water until tender. Drain well.

Capt. and Mrs. George Newell of this city left yesterday aboard the Aorangi for a holiday in Honolulu. Before returning to Victoria in several months they will take other side trips.

On Executive Of Auxiliary

First meeting of 1953 was held by Junior Auxiliary to Royal Jubilee Hospital recently. Appointed to a two-year term on the executive were Mrs. Len Acres, president; Mrs. T. W. Walker, first vice-president; Mrs. Harold Webster, vice-president; Mrs. W. Stanley Moore, thrift shop treasurer; Mrs. G. Duck, knitting, and Mrs. M. Young, financial advisory committee.

Mrs. H. Webster, retiring president, welcomed Mrs. H. Anderson as a new member. A former patient of the eye-ward donated a sum of money to the auxiliary which will be used for patients of the ward.

Mrs. Walter Fletcher made 13 home visits during the past month and distributed gifts during festive season. Gifts were also distributed to hospital wards by Mesdames F. C. Aldous and C. Clarke. Knitting and work meetings will be resumed, every Monday at the home.

Guild Renames Same President

Mrs. R. A. Bell was re-elected president of St. John's Ladies' Guild in annual meeting held Monday afternoon.

Other officers are Mrs. G. C. James, first vice-president; Mrs. J. Stillwell, second; Mrs. W. J. Porter, secretary and Mrs. G. A. Cooney, treasurer. Committee include Mesdames R. Harper, Walton and E. Booth, tea; Mesdames F. W. Taylor, W. H. Wells and G. H. Piercy, sick visiting; Mesdames M. P. Biggs, C. O. Smith, Manton, S. E. Wilson and V. Edward, work.

Reports were submitted by the secretary, Mrs. W. J. Porter and treasurer, Mrs. G. A. Cooney, the latter showing a sum of $1,292 realized during the year.

PTA NOTES

Tolmie—Films will be shown at meeting of Tolmie PTA on Monday at 8 in the school.

Willows—Meeting of Willows PTA on Tuesday evening will be a bingo party. It will be held in the auditorium at 8.

One pound of sulphur is required to make enough sulphite pulp for the manufacture of a pound of rayon.

Group Raises $1,180; Gives $590 to Church

Annual meeting of Women's Association of Fairfield United Church took place Thursday with the vice-president, Mrs. H. Carlyle, in the chair.

It was announced that the sum of $1,180 had been raised throughout the year by various activities, $590 of which had been sent to the managers of the church towards the refurnishing of the church kitchen.

Rev. Wm. Allan installed officers as follows: Honorary president, Mrs. Wm. Allan; past president, Mrs. A. S. Hunter; first vice-president, Mrs. J. W. Hill; second vice-president, Mrs. R. Husband; third vice-president, Mrs. H. Carlyle; recording secretary, Mrs. M. E. Robb; corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. S. Hunter; treasurer, Mrs. G. H. Carlyle; press, Mrs. W. G. H. Firth.

Mrs. T. R. Handasyde, the president, was unavoidably absent. It was decided to hold a "pot luck" supper on the evening of the annual congregational meet-

The following committees were formed: Kitchen, Mrs. R. Husband, Mrs. F. Pierce, Mrs. G. Drawson; manse, Mrs. J. W. Hill, Mrs. W. Firth; sewing, Mrs. D. McNeven, Mrs. H. Carlyle, Mrs. G. Haggis; knitting, Mrs. R. Vint; aprons, Mrs. E. G. Freeman, Mrs. A. L. Fox; flower, Mrs. A. Schroeder.

A donation of $25 will be sent to the United Church Training School Building Fund in Toronto.

BY RAY SIDAWAY

"Spellbound," the story of a woman psychiatrist who risks her life and professional reputation to cure the man with whom she has fallen in love, will be heard on Ford Theatre

tonight on CBU and CJVI at 6.

"One of the first and best of the psychological dramas, it revolves around a man whose mind has been blocked by a memory so repellent he unconsciously assumes another person's personality.

The psychiatrist successfully lowers the barrier in the man's mind only to find the memory of murder which leads to the powerful and startling climax of the strongly-plotted story.

"Mr. and Mrs. Radio" is the title appropriately conferred upon Cathy and Elliot Lewis,

co-stars of the new CBS radio program series,

"On-stage with Cathy and Elliot Lewis."

Both were solidly established in the entertainment world when they first met, but together they have worked to their present eminence as two of the best in their field.

Their multitudinous activities include for

Elliot, acting, writing, directing, producing and teaching; and for Cathy, writing, acting and singing.

In addition to their own radio program,

Cathy is heard and seen as Irma's friend, Jane

Stacy, on "My Friend Irma," and Elliot produces and directs "Suspense" and "Broadway's My Bea" and also handles the featured comedy role on the Phil Harris-Alice Faye Show.

TONIGHT'S HIGHLIGHTS: Mystery—

Crime Letter and Your FBI on KJR... Music

—Rhythm Pals featuring Mike, Mark and Jack

on CBU at 6... Comedy—Judy Canova and supporting cast on KOMO at 6:30.

Christmas Tree Sale Netted Optimist Club $733 Profit

Boys' work in the Greater Victoria area received a $733 boost Thursday as Optimist Club officials said profits from their December Christmas tree sale reached that figure.

Although that sum was much in excess of last year's total, Optimists had been even more optimistic about the results of the annual activity.

They thought they would have done better . . . and to assure even greater results next year

At 75, Veteran City Man Still Optimist

John A. Worthington, who came to Victoria as a boy in May of 1880, marked his 75th birthday Thursday, and proudly proclaimed "Victoria is still a lovely town."

The well-known "Johnny," who is a former alderman, firmly believes, however, that Victoria and surrounding municipalities are just wasting time by not amalgamating.

"It's the only thing to do," he said.

"Victoria should be kept as the business centre; Oak Bay, the residential district; Esquimalt for industry, and Saanich for residences and farms."

"I don't care what any of those town planning outfits say. That's the way it should be. Those town planning outfits, I'd chuck 'em over the Outer Wharf."

That's an example of Mr. Worthington's outspoken manner. It's because he talks like that, he believes, that his course in civic office didn't run smoothly.

"I was elected nine times. But I didn't serve those terms consecutively."

"I kept getting defeated. I was too frank, you know. Something like 'this Skilling's guy. I don't agree with all his stuff, mind you. A lot of it doesn't sound right to my ear.'"

Mr. Worthington was born in Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, and was brought to Victoria with his sister Maude when only 12. He went to Boys' Central School.

His occupation and his work most of his life has been real estate.

He readily admits: "Victoria has always treated me well. All our investments have proved worthwhile. But I invested here because I had confidence in the place—still have, too."

Mr. and Mrs. Worthington reside at 247 Government Street.

Llewellyn to Head Ex-Civil Servants

W. L. Llewellyn, 2189 Bartlett Street, was re-elected president of the B.C. Retired Civil Servants' Association at the annual meeting Thursday.

Others elected were Miss Lottie Brown, vice-president; James Morton, secretary, and H. J. Sceats, treasurer.

Named to the executive committee were Miss M. A. Cameron, Miss Nell Edwards, Mrs. L. Sweeney, T. W. S. Parsons, H. W. Edmondson, Ernest McGinnis, Arthur Manson and P. DeN. Walker.

E. P. O'Connor, general secretary of the B.C. Government Employees' Association, told of his organization's efforts to assist retired civil servants.

Younger Peers Refused Seats

LONDON (Reuters) — The Duke of Norfolk, in charge of all Coronation arrangements, announced Wednesday night that peers under 21 will not be invited to Westminster Abbey June 2. The decision was taken because of the limited number of seats available in the abbey. It does not affect those taking part in the actual ceremony.

PGE Changes Bring Protest

Provincial government consideration of a new route for the Pacific Great Eastern Railway northern extension has brought a storm of protest from Dawson Creek residents.

The new route would go through Monkman Pass in the Rocky Mountains, joining up with Northern Alberta Railway at Beaver Lodge, and would, by-pass Dawson Creek at Fort St. John. The original plan was to use Pine Pass route through Dawson Creek. Railway Minister Ralph Chetwynd has sent a wire to Rev. C. W. Parker, Peace River M.L.A., assuring him he had recommended no specific route yet. The M.L.A. had sent his objections to the Monkman Pass route earlier in the week.

Twelve Apostles Islands are a group of islands on the south side of Lake Superior.

Bush Pilot Hikes for Help

Bush pilot Jimmy Price, 23, walked 35 miles through a snowstorm to get help for three passengers after his plane made a forced landing during a blizzard on Lake Athabasca, 400 miles north of Edmonton. After sitting out the blizzard in the plane for nearly 24 hours, Price started out for Uranium City on foot and covered the 35 miles in 29 hours. His feet were frozen on arrival. A plane picked up his passengers, three miners from Uranium City, Sask.—Carl Anderson, 61; Jimmy Dale, 58, and Pete Teman, 41. All four were flown to hospital in Edmonton. Price is shown in the above picture, his eyes blackened and his face cut in the forced landing. (CP Photo.)

PROVINCIAL CONFERENCE IN FEBRUARY

JAMAICA ROLLS OUT GAY MAT OF WELCOME FOR CHURCHILL

TOWER ISLE, Jamaica (AP)—Jamaica put out its gayest welcome mat for the arrival of Prime Minister Churchill, whose holiday visit is regarded as one of the top events in the history of this crown colony.

Churchill is scheduled to arrive here from Washington in President Truman's plane, the Independence, following five days of conferences in New York with President-Elect Eisenhower and in the U.S. capital with Truman and top government officials.

In Washington, Thursday, Churchill visited another old friend, President Truman, during a whirlwind tour tinged with London-type weather.

The 78-year-old British leader conferred for 90 minutes with Truman at the White House and invited key U.S. congressional leaders to join him for "a late cup of tea" at the British Embassy Thursday night.

What they all talked about, Churchill made clear to reporters, was off the record.

UN Planes Err, Bomb, Strafe U.S. Soldiers

Undisclosed Number of Americans Killed As Anti-Aircraft Unit Mistaken for Foe

(From AP and UP Dispatches)

SEOUL, Korea—An undisclosed number of American soldiers were killed or wounded by United Nations planes Thursday when UN pilots mistook their anti-aircraft battery for an enemy target.

The tragic error took place behind the lines. At least 15 bombs were slammed into the supply unit anti-aircraft company before the surprised soldiers could give for cover.

The planes followed up their bombing attack with a general strafing of the area.

The company attacked by the Allied bombers was a service battery, which ordinarily is a rear area unit which supplies the guns and ammunition for the fighting front lines.

In addition to the troop casualties, several trucks and other equipment were destroyed. It was not immediately disclosed how many planes were involved or what type they were.

However, a soldier who declined to be named said one plane was an F-84 Thunderjet fighter-bomber. He said it came in low and riddled 10 tents and one building.

The soldier said a truck loaded with fuel was set afire and a jeep shot up and its driver killed.

In Tokyo, Brig.-Gen. William Nuckols, information officer for the Far East Air Forces, said "as far as can be learned there are no indications that U.S. Air Force planes were involved."

AP correspondent George McArthur said the company commander told him, in a conversation over a faulty telephone line:

"They went so fast I can't be sure what they were."

The command post area behind the lines in a sheltered valley north of Yoncheon, was pocked by about 15 bomb craters, the officer said.

Canyon Slides Isolate Coast From East Canada

Winds Disrupt Island Phones, City Power

Severe winds that drubbed up-island centres, disrupting power and telephone services Thursday night and early today, were the latest developments in a weather picture that has been topsy-turvy for a week.

Victoria's waterfront seethed as overnight winds eased off and the Motor Princess, coming from Vancouver, sailed almost to Albert Head to give her a stern sea for entering harbor.

Farther up-island Cowichan Bay reported its worst storm in years, the road to Crofton was flooded, and telephone connections between Nanaimo and Port Alberni and Campbell River were broken.

All main roads were reported clear, however. Duncan was the hardest hit of all communities as heavy snow, warm rain, and finally gale winds ended a 16-hour session of winter weather with a mad round of destruction.

GRANDSTAND DOWN
Grandstand of the Duncan Athletics Baseball Club was toppled, and fences, billboards, and some TV aerials were flattened.

Earlier in the day the city had a heavy fall of snow. With the warm wind and rain, the record melting of eight inches of snow sent rivers and streams to flood heights, overflowing into streets and gutters and into many basements.

Deep snow on the roof of the Goode Building prevented runoff, and considerable damage was done to the building and goods stored within. Commercial Hotel dining room floor was under two inches of water for a time.

Three B.C. Power Commission crews are busy in Ladysmith today repairing breaks in the city's distributing system caused by high winds, that left street lights out for four hours.

CITY BLACKOUT
Sections of Victoria suffered a power blackout of from 10 minutes to one-half hour today, starting at 6:35 a.m., caused by failure of up-island transmission lines.

Nearest casualty during the storm occurred at Deep Cove, when falling trees trapped Murray Saunders, 196 Beach Drive, Alert Service driver.

While making an early morning run in the district a tree fell across the road in front of his truck and dragged a power line and branches across the cab.

When he left the truck he found a second tree had fallen behind the truck.

"We expect snow showers tonight with a few clear periods and temperatures of from 30 to 38 and 40 degrees," weatherman William Mackie said today.

Another storm, however, is in the South Pacific, and if it begins to move rapidly it will be here Saturday. Result will be snow late Saturday and rising temperatures, he said.

New Legislation For Sunday Shows Forecast in B.C.

The provincial government hopes to frame legislation making it legal to hold certain types of shows and concerts on Sundays for which admission is charged.

Such functions at present are illegal, but the law has not been enforced. Recently, police advised Vancouver newspapers they would be prosecuted if they continued to accept advertisements for Sunday symphony concerts and Canadian Legion shows.

The government, it is understood, is investigating how far its constitutional powers go in amending present legislation to permit certain types of Sunday shows.

OTHERS HIT
There was no fresh word on another ship in trouble in the wind-lashed Pacific, the Panamanian freighter Santa Despo. The Santa Despo was last reported out of control in raging seas about 600 miles north of Midway Island.

The British freighter King Edgar, another victim of the angry Pacific, reported she had made necessary repairs and was heading for Honolulu. The report said no assistance was needed and the freighter hoped to reach Honolulu Saturday.

Off the California coast another stricken vessel limped toward port. The lumber schooner Cynthia Olson, buffeted by high winds and mountainous seas Wednesday night, reported she was out of danger and proceeding slowly to San Pedro, Calif., instead of San Francisco.

Frozen Milk Process Developed in France
PARIS (BUP)—The development of a packaging method to sell whole frozen milk like butter has been disclosed by a trio of French inventors. The quick freezing process preserves all the qualities of fresh milk, the inventors say.

CALIFORNIA SHORTAGE MAY UP B.C. GAS PRICE

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Oil shortages in California may cause a hike in British Columbia gasoline prices, an Imperial Oil executive said in Vancouver today.

John R. White, vice-president, told the Vancouver Board of Trade that California is now the source of most of B.C.'s oil, and prices are due to rise because shortages there are compelling the use of more costly supplies.

But arrival of Canadian crude by pipeline next fall may bring prices back to present levels, he pointed out.

U.S. Spending Up $4 Billion

73% for National Security; Would Increase Foreign Military Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman laid a $78,900,000,000 valedictory budget before Congress today.

This estimate of government spending in the fiscal year 1954, beginning July 1, was $4,000,000,000 more than Truman projected for the current fiscal year and $12,500,000,000 more than in fiscal 1952, which ended last June 30.

The increases were almost entirely for national security programs, and pointed toward a $10,000,000,000 deficit 18 months from now.

Truman called for a big increase in foreign aid, mostly for military help to European allies of the U.S. This flew in the face of majority congressional desire, expressed in a recent survey by the Associated Press, for reduced foreign aid.

Ike MAY REVISE
The budget message Truman sent Congress today, 11 days before he leaves office, is subject to revision by the incoming Eisenhower administration, which has indicated it will be scrutinized closely and revised, probably starting in April.

On the St. Lawrence seaway, Truman said that if the new administration and Congress propose "practical arrangements for sharing the costs and construction of the seaway, I believe the Canadians will, even at this late date, admit us to partnership in the seaway." (A Canadian note to Washington today said U.S. co-operation would be welcomed.)

As is customary, the President sent the 20,000-word message to Congress, and did not read it to the legislators himself. It was about 10,000 words shorter than last year's.

$500 PER CAPITA
The budget called for expenditures in fiscal 1954 equal to $489.15 for every man, woman and child the census bureau estimates will be in the U.S. Jan. 1, 1954, half-way through the 12-month budget period.

In his defense of the new policy, slated for institution next week, Premier Bennett said: "There seems to be a lot of confusion in the mind of the public on Mr. Wicks' proposal."

"It should be clearly understood the part-time board will have a full-time chairman, Col. D'Arcy Baldwin, who has been in that post for two years."

"The representatives of labor and industry will be called in by the chairman whenever required."

The premier explained that the proposal is "not just designed to save a few thousand dollars, but is part of a re-organization of the labor department."

"I'd like to point out to labor this is the first time for many years that the government has had a labor minister and a deputy who are members of trade unions," stated Premier Bennett.

Cardena Passengers On Way to Vancouver
VANCOUVER (BUP)—Twenty-two passengers from the holed ship Cardena are scheduled to arrive in Vancouver tonight aboard the Union Steamship Coquitlam, which picked them up at Alert Bay.

The passengers were taken off the crippled Union ship after her hull was torn on a rock near Sullivan Bay yesterday.

Snows Paralyze Rail, Auto Travel; TCA Flies

VANCOUVER (BUP)—A raging blizzard in the Fraser Canyon has completely blocked off B.C.'s lower mainland from the east with an avalanche of snow cascading down on rails and roads.

Snow, pelted by high winds, temporarily paralyzed both railways through the mountains. Both the CPR and CNR were unable to pass through the Fraser Canyon between Yale and Lytton. The CPR made one attempt to push a train through, but it was indefinitely delayed.

The Trans-Canada highway is blocked east of Hope.

Trans-Canada Airline officials here reported all transcontinental flights operating as of noon today. Flights from Victoria to Vancouver were interrupted for about eight hours by sleet and snow conditions at Vancouver airport, but resumed at 12:15 p.m.

The CNR's eastbound train waited in Vancouver for the slide to be cleared. Company officials said they could not estimate when the line may be open. They said "every available man" from Vancouver to Kamloops was helping clear the snow.

The RCMP reported the Hope-Princeton highway was in "very poor" shape and no vehicles were allowed over it without chains.

Trucks attempting to run from Princeton to Hope were delayed up to four hours.

The Pacific storm, which brought warm, almost springlike winds to Vancouver, turned out to be high winds in the Hope area, resulting in the first major snowslides of the year.

PLANE RESCUES CRASH VICTIMS

Survivors of Alaska Highway Crash Flown 'Outside' by Daring Pilot

EDMONTON (CP)—Five persons injured in two separate accidents along the Alaska Highway, four seriously, were evacuated to Edmonton hospitals early today by an RCAF mercy plane. The body of a woman, killed in one of the mishaps, was not brought out.

Dead was Mrs. Ernest Camyres of Calgary. Her 41-year-old husband was receiving blood transfusions in hospital. He suffered internal injuries, a smashed left leg, frostbite and exposure.

Injured in the same accident were a Mr. and Mrs. Miller and their nine-year-old daughter, Joanne, from Anchorage, Alaska. Mr. Miller, an American serviceman, suffered chest and leg injuries while his wife has a fractured skull and facial injuries. The daughter escaped with a shaking up.

The fifth person evacuated was Arthur Kettley, 29, a highway maintenance man stationed at Mile 201 of the Alaska highway. He suffered a fractured spine when hit on the back by a crane boom.

The evacuation was carried out in darkness by a Dakota transport plane piloted by Flt. Lieut. W. J. Watson of Rockcliffe, Ont. It had been on a routine northern flight Thursday when it was diverted to Fort St. John, B.C., 350 miles northwest of Edmonton to pick up the injured.

Two cars apparently were involved in the smash-up at Mile 127 of the Alaska highway, which injured the Camyres and the Millers.

City engineers and police were out in strength during the night patrolling the reinforced dikes, but they were unable to stem a flow of water over the top of the embankments. A road in the Sunnyside district was under about four inches of water and nearly 10 homes were threatened if the water continued to rise.

Flood Waters Threaten Calgary Homes

CALGARY, Alta. (BUP)—The turbulent Bow River threatened to go on a destructive rampage today as flood waters spilled over dikes in Calgary's Sunnyside residential district.

Fed by recent heavy snowfalls, icy water from the Ghost River surged into the Bow last night and poured over protective barriers in the city at several points after failing to sweep away a mile-long ice jam in the river. The water was released over Ghost Dam to relieve pressure building up behind it.

City engineers and police were out in strength during the night patrolling the reinforced dikes, but they were unable to stem a flow of water over the top of the embankments. A road in the Sunnyside district was under about four inches of water and nearly 10 homes were threatened if the water continued to rise.

TORONTO STUDENTS 'UP IN ARMS'

Varsity Editors Kill Sports Page; School's Aim 'Confused'

TORONTO, Jan. 9 (BUP)—The editors of the University of Toronto student newspaper, The Varsity, announced today they were dropping coverage of sports in order to avoid confusing students about "the true purpose of a university."

Students were "up in arms" against the decision, one Varsity staff member said. The editors said they would stake their decision, if necessary, on a campus-wide vote.

The three editors, Bud Godfrey, Jim Anderson and Bob Sheppard, said the decision was entirely their own and reached "after lengthy consideration."

"Education is the prime purpose of a university," they wrote. "This purpose is confused by the prominence given university sports. The Varsity has contributed to this confusion."

"We have helped make campus heroes out of football players. We have contributed to making university sport into big business, and big business the yardstick of education."

The editors said, however, they did not minimize the importance of athletics for those who participated and would continue to report results of inter-faculty and intramural games. Beginning Monday, however, there will be no sports page, and members of the sports staff will be offered other positions on the paper.

The front page story, headed "Drop sports page on considering overemphasis," said the action was taken because of too much emphasis on university sports.

The sports staff protested in another story that the sports page had a part to play in campus news and said it was the best-read part of the paper for many students.

University president Dr. Sidney Smith was not immediately available for comment, but J. McCutcheon, director of intramural sports, said:

"I know of no university on the continent where a more sane attitude toward sports is shown than at Toronto."

Athletic director Warren Stevens said: "The newspaper's service to the readers is to report news and should include sports."

Head coach Bob Mastersson said, "I'm amazed. I'm speechless."
